Executive Summary

Assembly Bill (AB) 109 (Chapter 15, Statutes of 2011), realigning California's adult criminal justice system, signaled a significant policy change in the treatment, custody, rehabilitation and community reintegration efforts of offenders. Public Safety Realignment empowered each county to make local public safety decisions based on local needs.

The Budget Act of 2014 (SB 852, Chapter 25, Statutes of 2014) appropriated $7,900,000 to counties that submitted reports to the Board of State and Community Corrections (BSCC) on the implementation of the Community Corrections Partnership (CCP) plans accepted by the county Board of Supervisors pursuant to section 1230.1 of the Penal Code. The Budget Act reads:

Counties are eligible to receive funding if they submit a report to the Board of State and Community Corrections by December 15, 2014, that provides information about the actual implementation of the 2013-14 Community Corrections Partnership plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors pursuant to Section 1230.1 of the Penal Code. The report shall include, but not be limited to, progress in achieving outcome measures as identified in the plan or otherwise available. Additionally, the report shall include plans for the 2014-15 allocation of funds, including future outcome measures, programs and services, and funding priorities as identified in the plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors.

Since 2012 the BSCC has surveyed counties to collect information for this report. Some counties are more thorough in their reporting than others, as the report makes clear. For those counties additional information is also included in the appendix. When counties did not report information, the BSCC gathered information from alternate sources and noted it on the individual county page. To facilitate data collection the BSCC developed an electronic survey for counties to complete. Five survey sections asked a series of questions to understand each county's Public Safety Realignment approach, including: CCP Membership; Allocation of FY 2013-14 Public Safety Realignment dollars; Goals, Objectives and Outcome Measures; Allocation of FY 2014-15 Public Safety Realignment dollars; and an Optional section.

The BSCC emailed surveys to each Chief Probation Officer in his or her capacity as CCP Chair in October 2014. CCP Chairs were asked to share the survey with members, collaborate on responses, and submit one completed document representative of the CCP views by December 2014.

Counties that responded received compensation as outlined in the Budget Act. Allocations were made as follows:

$100,000 to each county with a population under 200,000, inclusive, $150,000 to each county with a population of 200,001 to 749,999, inclusive, and $200,000 to each county with a population of 750,000 and above. Allocations were determined based on the most recent county population data published by the Department of Finance.

Counties adopted diverse approaches to program development, the allocation of Realignment dollars and the treatment of offenders.

County investments included rehabilitation, programming, recidivism reduction, tattoo removal, data collection, use of evidence-based approaches, housing, mental health and training.

Some county innovations were well-received by the public and media including:

- Alameda County agrees to allocate more realignment funds to community-based organizations. (2015, April 24). Contra Costa Times. http://www.contracostatimes.com/breaking-news/ci\_27778346/alameda-county-agrees-allocate-more-realignment-funds-community

Alameda County will approximately double the money it spends on programs helping people coming out of jail and prison under a plan approved by supervisors. The Board of Supervisors voted 3-1 to allocate 50 percent of public safety funds generated by prison realignment on community-based organizations that serve the re-entry population in fiscal year 2015-2016.

- Kern County putting more realignment money into treatment. (2015, May 17). The Bakersfield Californian. <http://www.bakersfield.com/news/2013/11/24/forced-to-change-kern-county-putting-more-realignment-money-into-treatment.html>

Kern County Deputy Sheriff Francis Moore stood at the doorway of the packed classroom tucked in the middle of the minimum security inmate barracks at Lerdo Jail and waved his hand at the barbed wire, sally ports and cell block units. "We ain't got room for you," he told the 21 men sitting at school desks. "We want you to succeed." It's not a message the addicts in hot-orange jumpsuits and stocking caps would have heard even three years ago. In the past when their addictions drove them to crimes that shuffled them in and out of jail, Kern County was happy to lock them up. Now the county's mental health and law enforcement agencies have teamed up to help more of them get clean and stay out of jail.

- Program stresses rehab over jail. (2015, May 26). Appeal-Democrat. http://www.appeal-democrat.com/news/program-stresses-rehab-over-jail/article\_98e3c176-0375-11e5-bd45-176b7833657e.html.

Yuba County criminal justice officials are a bit surprised by the initial success of a new defendant program, which may become a model for other counties. The program allows some criminal offenders who would not usually be eligible for probation to attend a program, such as a residential drug or substance abuse treatment program. If they are successful, the judge will make an unusual case finding and the defendant will be sentenced to probation instead of time in jail or prison.

The individual approaches of counties demonstrates the varied goals, objectives and outcome measures CCPs reported for either FY 2013-14 and/or 2014-15. Examples of reported goals include:

- Develop innovative and therapeutic support for clients focused on health, housing, and improving access to family-sustaining employment
- Initiate use of Moral Reconation Treatment (cognitive intervention around criminal thinking) in-custody and at the Day Reporting Center
- Increase the use of validated risk-assessment tools for decision making
- Coordinate and provide enhanced substance use disorder rehabilitative services to facilitate offender reentry
- Initiate Transitional Housing project to meet the needs of high-risk male offenders who are homeless
- Incorporate re-entry principles into in-custody programming

Local CCP meetings and each county's local implementation plan remain the most comprehensive way to gather county-specific information. Additional information on Realignment, CCP plans, and the BSCC's annual reports on the implementation of local CCP plans can be accessed electronically from the BSCC website at <http://www.bscc.ca.gov/index.php>.

Information and data contained in this report are from survey responses provided to the BSCC from October 2014 through December 2014 unless noted otherwise. Survey responses were received from all counties except Alpine County, which elected to not complete the survey. This report provides a snapshot of a period of time and does not portray or capture all local events, current meetings or decisions occurring in each county.

Introduction

Statutory Requirement

Senate Bill (SB) 92 (Chapter 36, Statutes of 2011) requires the Board of State and Community Corrections (BSCC) to collect each county's Community Corrections Partnership (CCP) implementation plan adopted by the Board of Supervisors and authorizes the BSCC to evaluate, publish, and disseminate statistics and other information on the condition and progress of criminal justice in the state. The BSCC is also required to submit a report to the Governor and the Legislature on the implementation of CCP plans effective July 1, 2013, and annually thereafter. This report is respectfully submitted in fulfillment of this mandate and is the third annual report on the implementation of CCP plans.

Overview

Throughout the state counties have engaged in substantive dialogue with CCP members<sup>1</sup>, community activists, and the general public on the types of services and programs each community should offer. CCP meetings, chaired by the Chief Probation Officer in each county, are an opportunity for members to hear proposals, review data, listen to public comments and offer a forum for the community to engage in decisions that impact them.

The Budget Act of 2014 (SB 852, Chapter 25, Statutes of 2014) requested information about the actual implementation of the 2013-14 Community Corrections Partnership plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors pursuant to Section 1230.1 of the Penal Code. This includes, but is not limited to, progress in achieving outcome measures as identified in the plan or otherwise available. Additionally, counties were asked about plans for the 2014-15 allocation of funds, future outcome measures, programs and services, and funding priorities as identified in a local plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors.

To facilitate data collection the BSCC developed an electronic survey for counties to complete. Survey responses were received from all counties except Alpine County, which elected to not complete the survey. Examples of responses include:

- More than 50 percent of counties report meeting monthly or quarterly
- More than 70 percent of counties report the CCP has a subcommittee or working group
- 57 counties provided a budget allocation for local departments (e.g. Probation, Mental Health, Community-Based Organization, etc.) in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15

In FY 2014-15 BSCC staff visited more than 20 local programs, events and CCP meetings. Data and information provided to the BSCC from October 2014 through December 2014 continue to reflect each county's unique approach to implementing Realignment locally. Subsequently, county-to-county comparisons are not a focal point of this report. It is important to remember that each county began Realignment with different needs, resources, perspectives, capacities and objectives.

Some counties have engaged in structured and strategic long-term planning that results in a comprehensive approach to local community corrections.

<sup>1</sup> CCP membership is defined in statute to include the chief probation officer as chair, the presiding judge of the superior court or his or her designee, a county supervisor or the chief administrative officer for the county or a designee of the board of supervisors, the district attorney, the public defender, the sheriff, a chief of police, the head of the county department of social services, the head of the county department of mental health, the head of the county department of employment, the head of the county alcohol and substance abuse programs, the head of the county office of education, a representative from a community-based organization with experience in successfully providing rehabilitative services to persons who have been convicted of a criminal offense and an individual who represents the interests of victims (Penal Code section 1230).

Examples include:

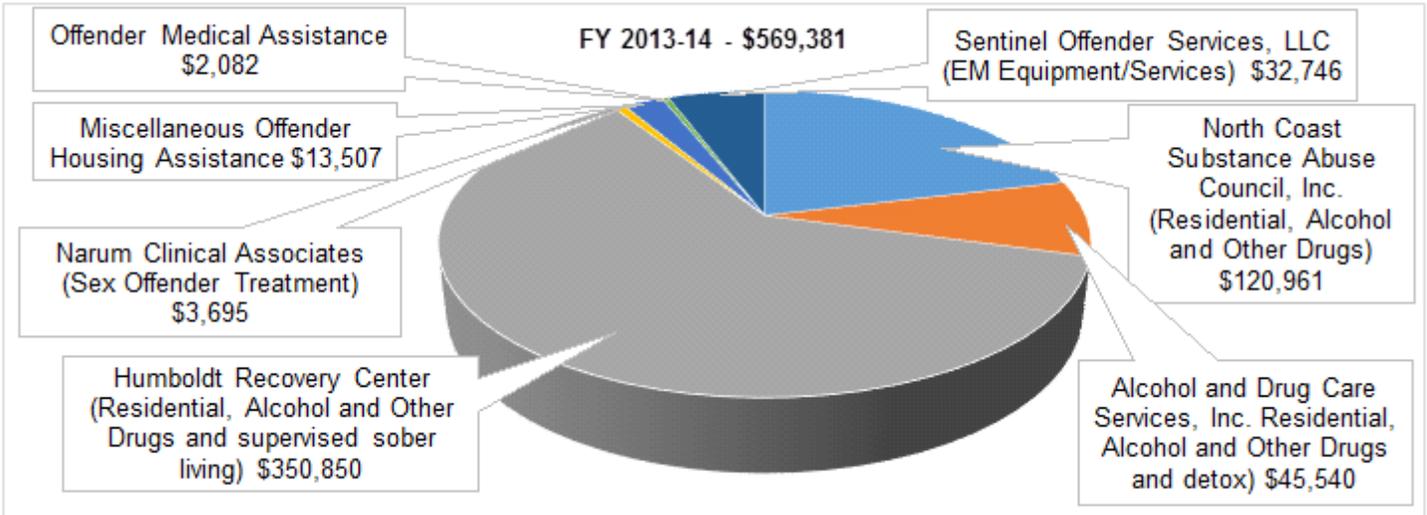

- In Fresno County, the firm of Owen Research and Evaluation was hired by the CCP to provide the CCP evaluative services as required and approved in the AB 109 Implementation Plan. The overall focus of activity has been to create an objective and evidence-based evaluation and quality assurance plan for the county. In addition, the introduction of proposed expansion of research efforts including the PEW supported Results First Initiative, the Public Policy Institute of California and the Urban Institute, have required new methods of data management.
- Sacramento County is one of 11 counties working with the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC) to develop quantifiable, unbiased goals, objectives and measures. The BSCC and PPIC are working together on this 11-county study of adult realignment. In Sacramento County local sources of data, such as the Probation and Sheriff's Departments, will be supplemented with data from the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation and the California Department of Justice (which can capture an offender's recidivism that occurs anywhere in the state of California, not just in Sacramento County.)
- Siskiyou CCP's early and ongoing comprehensive planning efforts have resulted in integrated strategies that enhance resources through shared funding and service systems. Combining enforcement and treatment, emphasizing evidence-based approaches, enhancing prevention and early intervention resources and promoting local access have demonstrated early promising results. One example is the District Attorney's Pre-trial Diversion Program. During 2013, 81 individuals were referred, including 30 felons, 53 successfully completed the program with one participant reoffending. In another example a Correctional Services Specialist housed at the Day Reporting Center assists those in-custody, out-of-custody and drug court participants to access necessary services. These services include MediCal, CalFresh, alcohol and drug outpatient and in-patient services, job application assistance, and GED test preparation. The Corrections Services Specialist has created partnerships with local businesses and has increased the number of offenders who have successfully gained employment.
- During FY 2013-14 the Sonoma CCP reactivated its Data Management and Evaluation Subcommittee and tasked it with developing outcome measures for AB 109. The effort involves determining which outcome measures to report, in addition to creating a plan for data collection and management. The Subcommittee's project charter includes four primary phases: (1) creating a methodology for evaluating effectiveness of funded programs and services; (2) determining which outcome measures to report; (3) developing a plan for data collection and management; and (4) creating the reporting processes by which the accepted outcomes may be reported on a regular basis. The subcommittee completed the first two phases of its charter during FY 2013-14. The subcommittee worked with stakeholder agencies to develop a high-level system logic model for the CCPs funded programs. The overarching system logic model describes inputs, activities, system impacts, and defines short-term, intermediate, and long-term outcomes. The subcommittee also created individual program logic models for all funded programs and services that can be measured using defined outcomes. Each program logic model details assumptions, planned resources, planned activities, planned outputs, short-term outcomes, mid-term outcomes, long-term outcomes and system impacts. During FY 2014-15, the subcommittee will further its data collection and evaluation work as follows: (1) refine the County's existing logic models; (2) develop an outcome evaluation plan based on finalized logic models; (3) conduct a gap analysis of current data collection systems relative to future reporting needs; (4) generate a plan for data collection and management; (5) produce an initial prototype outcome evaluation report; and (6) create reporting processes whereby County personnel can generate future reports on a recurring basis. The subcommittee's AB 109 evaluation efforts will be linked to the County's effort to update its Criminal Justice Master Plan in 2015.

Diverse solutions to local community corrections planning are also reflected in each county's decision on how it will allocate funds. Each county was asked to respond to the following question:

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 how did the CCP budget for programs and services?

Examples include:

Humboldt County

FY 2013-14 budgeted allocation for programs and services does not include $135,505 from a revolving trust account. Total budgeted allocation was $704,886.

Kern County

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 how did the CCP budget for programs and services?

San Diego County

*FY 13-14 allocation amount pledged to support projects budgeted in previous fiscal years **Substance Abuse, Mental Health, Sex Offender Treatment, and Housing Services in the Community*** Law Enforcement Analysis, Law Enforcement Support ****Sheriff's Reentry and Rehabilitation Facility

Sutter County

Consistent with its charge the BSCC remains available to provide training and technical assistance to counties, and will continue to evaluate, publish, and disseminate statistics and other information on the condition and progress of criminal justice in the state.

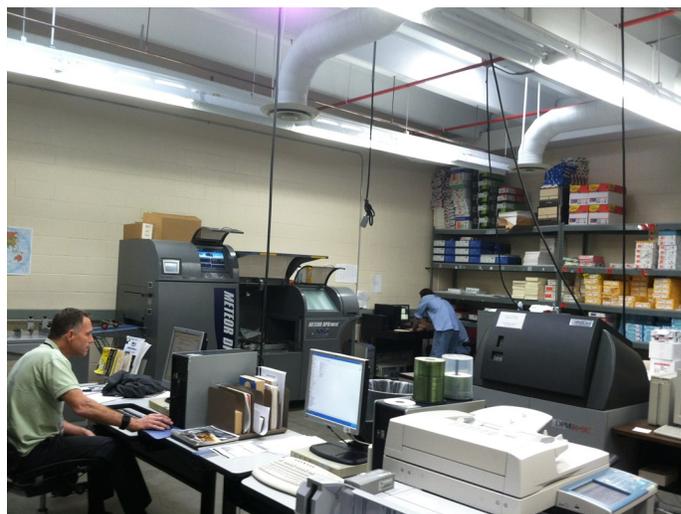

The remainder of the report is categorized in three sections. Positive Results From A Local Best Practice; Individual County Profiles; and an Appendix consisting of a Glossary of Terms, County Goals, Objectives, Outcome measure and progress, and the FY 2014-15 Community Corrections Partnership Survey.

Positive Results From a Local Best Practice or Promising Program

Each county completing the BSCC survey on the implementation of Community Corrections Partnership (CCP) plans was asked, “Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?” Responses included program descriptions, quantitative and qualitative data and brief stories.

The following pages highlight responses from the counties of Kern, Marin, San Diego, San Mateo, and Yuba. Additional information on positive results from a local best practice or promising program can be found in the section of the report titled “Individual County Profiles.”

Print Shop (vocational and jail industry program) at the Todd Road Jail in Ventura County

Welding program at the Stanislaus County Public Safety Center

Kern County

Day Reporting Center (DRC)

The DRC is a "one-stop shop" for moderate-to high-risk offenders. Services include: cognitive-behavioral therapy, counseling, drug testing, drug education, educational services and employment services. In Kern County Probation has observed a correlation between graduation from the DRC and a 23 percent drop in recidivism when compared to a control group. Please see the Kern County DRC Study at <http://www.kernprobation.com/ab109ccp-realignment/plans-and-reports/> for more information.

Matrix

The Matrix program is an evidence-based, intensive, multi-level, substance abuse program. The Matrix program uses a combination of cognitive-behavioral therapy, drug testing, drug education, and counseling to treat substance abuse disorders. In FY 2013-14 the Kern County Matrix program served 5,291 participants and screened an additional 500 clients who failed to start treatment.

In-Custody Programs

The Sheriff's Office provides a variety of In-Custody Programs, including GED preparation, Life Skills, Parenting, Anger Management, Domestic Violence, Substance Abuse, Health, Art, Auto-body, Cafeteria and Food Services, computer classes, and a veterans' program. Though many of these programs are grant funded, AB 109 funding provides staff, supervision, supplies, and Administrative costs for these programs. In FY 2013-14 these programs served a combined total of 4,518 participants (NOTE: this is a duplicative count; many participants enroll in multiple programs).

Community-Based Sober Living Environments

Kern County contracts with six Community-Based Sober Living Environments. In addition to drug- and alcohol-free living environments, these organizations also provide drug testing, require counseling, and aid participants in education and employment. In FY 2013-14 these organizations saved 28,405 jail bed days, had 341 successful completions, and maintained an 84 percent retention rate.

Paid Work Experience

The Kern County Work Experience program began in February 2013. Since the inception, there have been a total of 18 participants with eight participants gainfully employed, seven who failed to complete the program for various reasons (two passed away unexpectedly during the program), and three who will complete the program in December 2014. To date not one of the participants has been re-incarcerated.

Marin County

Recognizing that realigned offenders would be at greater risk of failing to meet supervision requirements, the CCP approved funding for a fulltime Recovery Coach. The purpose of the recovery coach is to focus on the dynamic factors that are correlated with recidivism, such as antisocial attitudes, antisocial peer associations and substance abuse. Recovery Coaches work closely with the offenders and Deputy Probation Officer to assist in identifying and obtaining support, such as driving them to treatment to purchasing basic necessities. While connecting clients to services and resources, recovery coaches work with offenders one-on-one to develop cognitive social awareness, including recognizing apathetic tendencies, identifying problem solving and self-control deficits that prove to be barriers to employment, securing safe and stable housing and forming positive relationships.

Recovery Coaches have worked with 74 percent of the active AB109 clients in FY 2013-14.

The following is a success story about an AB109 participant this past year, written by James Ricci, Recovery Coach/Case Manager:

“Jessie M is a 42 year-old white male, AB 109 client, with a long history of methamphetamine use and years of criminal justice involvement. Jessie was raised in a lower class neighborhood where substance abuse and criminality were a common practice. Prior to his participation in services provided by AB109, he had no relationship with his two daughters who remained with his ex-wife and had pretty much lost all direction in life. Even with the lifestyle provided to him he developed some pro-social skills and the knowledge that there was something better in life for him. However, his addiction, attitudes and beliefs in conjunction with environmental barriers continued to prevent him from succeeding.

After his release and once he completed his initial individualized care plan goals, such as stable housing, sobriety and a positive support system, Jessie began participating in an On-the-Job Training (OJT) program, provided through the partnership between Marin Employment Connection (MEC) and Marin County Probation Department. During this time he was able to refine his wood working skills and experience by assisting in the construction of a sailboat with and non-profit agency called Tall Ships. Additionally, he was the first OJT participant to be hired by the builders of the sailboat (Tall Ships) once his OJT position ended. Jessie feels that his life is more fulfilling now. Although he always felt that he would be able to find a job, Jessie quickly learned and understands the importance of stable employment, long-term goal setting, and their connection to the need to “manage my recovery, my money, and my family”. Working with his Recovery Coach and Probation Officer has helped him to deal with his “unfinished business” and change his attitudes toward life. He now has a relationship with both of his daughters, who he sees practically every weekend and is providing regular financial support.

Jessie is grateful for all of the support he has received from his Recovery Coach, Probation Officer and the AB109 services that were made available to him. Through this program he has been able to develop a healthy network of friends and supporters, has learned to be financially responsible and accountable to his children, and has developed an ethic that promotes positive and constructive values for him and his family. “I came here to get clean and to stop using drugs. I’ve gained new friends, support, housing, and a job”! Jessie has maintained full time employment with Tall Ships for almost 9 months; he has received much praise for his dedication, hard work and vigorous integrity.

In his own words, “life is exciting without using.”

San Diego County

Supervision of Mandatory Supervision (MS) Offenders

To supervise the MS population, the CCP developed a Mandatory Supervision Court, which began operating in February 2013. Every offender sentenced to a split term participates in Mandatory Supervision Court. The Mandatory Supervision Court is the primary element of the CCP's Mandatory Supervision Plan.

To manage the MS offender population, Probation prepares an MS Plan, which includes a Correctional Offender Management Profiling for Alternative Sanctions (COMPAS) assessment and a case plan based on the offender's identified risks and needs. Once sentenced, the offender participates in prescribed programming based on the assessments while in custody, including cognitive-behavioral therapy, vocational programming, and substance abuse treatment. With correctional counselors and on-site probation officers, MS offenders work to complete the goals as identified in Probation's case plan.

Approximately 30 days prior to release, the offender attends a pre-release court hearing in which the Court and the multi-disciplinary team, which includes an assigned Deputy District Attorney and Deputy Public Defender, a Correctional Counselor, and assigned Probation Officer, review the offender's progress in custody and discuss the plan for transition to the community. The offender is then brought before the court and the court informs the MS offender of the conditions and requirements of his or her Mandatory Supervision.

After release from incarceration, regular status hearings for continued monitoring of the offender's progress are calendared in Mandatory Supervision court. Mandatory Supervision court is held weekly. In addition to these regular status hearings, the Probation Officer will continue to update the case plan, monitor compliance and place the offender in appropriate programs based on the offender's assessed risks and needs. All warrants are brought before the Judge and all revocations and modifications to the conditions are heard in Mandatory Supervision court.

Supervision of Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) Offenders

San Diego County's Community Transition Center (CTC) was created and became operational in January 2013 to facilitate the re-entry of PRCS offenders. With the implementation of the CTC, Probation officers are able to immediately assess and engage the offenders and connect them with services needed to successfully reintegrate into society. Upon arrival at the CTC, offenders are assessed for criminogenic needs and meet with the Behavioral Health Screening Team (BHST). The BHST screens each individual for substance abuse and mental health needs. Staff is also available to conduct benefit eligibility screening and application assistance. While at the CTC, a preliminary case plan is developed and offenders are referred to initial services. Upon leaving the CTC and reporting to the assigned Deputy Probation Officer, offenders may be referred to additional services based on their specialized case plan.

Prior to the implementation of the CTC, PRCS offenders absconded upon release at an overall rate of 10 percent. While other counties throughout the state continue to struggle with this challenge, as a part of the operation of the CTC every PRCS offender is picked up at the state prison upon release and transported directly to the center. This transportation service effectively eliminates an offender's ability to abscond. After the assessment process is complete, offenders are transported out of the center, either to a residence, shelter or treatment facility.

A new and innovative use of the CTC allows offenders (including Mandatory Supervision offenders) who violate their community supervision terms and are in need of treatment to be referred to and housed at the CTC while awaiting availability at a residential treatment program. This temporary housing helps to save limited jail bed space and keeps the offender in a therapeutic environment until they can enter a program.

During FY 2013-14 the CTC served a total of 2,045 offenders (1,263 PRCS, 223 MS, 461 PRCS violators, 98 MS violators).

San Mateo County

Achieve 180

From January 2010 to March 2014 San Mateo County implemented the Achieve 180 (A180) program, funded by a grant from the Bureau of Justice Assistance. A180's goals were to reduce recidivism and support the successful transition back to the community for formerly incarcerated individuals.

When the funding for A180 ended, the CCP established Service Connect, a partnership among HSA, the Health System (including Correctional Health and Behavioral Health and Recovery Services), and the Probation Department. Since March 2014 Service Connect has provided reentry assistance to individuals under Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) or those sentenced to adult county jail pursuant to PC 1170(h) with mandatory supervision by Probation upon release.

Since March, 83 percent of Service Connect clients have received comprehensive medical assessments/visits through the San Mateo Public Health Mobile Clinics. This also results in fewer emergency room visits for this population. Additionally, 57 percent of Service Connect clients that participated in the 550! Jobs program were subsequently placed in jobs. Finally, about 73 percent of those on supervised probation completed their supervision term with no new felony violations.

Yuba County

The following excerpt was written by a senior probation officer:

I have witnessed a very positive impact from utilizing best practice programs. In the past we were at the mercy of utilizing quite a few private vendors. Since we have assumed the responsibility of providing many of our own best practice programs we have drastically improved accessibility, consistency, quality, participation, and ultimately, our client's overall satisfaction and success rates. My introduction to our clients when conducting an initial interview speaks heavily on the topic of past practices versus current practices. I enjoy pointing out the great strides we have made in attempting to meet our client's needs and to support their success. The vast majority of our clients walk out of that meeting feeling hope for their future and they often embrace the programs we offer with enthusiasm. I have received excellent feedback after their attendance and it has become common for our clients to eagerly request additional, voluntary program enrollments. I remain excited about their future as we continue to expand the services we currently provide.

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2014-15.

The Community Corrections Partnership Executive Committee (CCPEC) has identified and approved goals for FY 2014-15 and is developing performance measures for each goal. CCPEC will use Results-Based Accountability to develop performance measures which answer the following questions: How much did we do, how well did we do and is anyone better off?

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

*Community Capacity Fund **Programs and Services *** Infrastructure Support

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 how did the CCP budget for programs and services?

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

One example of a promising program is the Realignment Housing Program. In partnership with Alameda County's Probation Department, Social Services Agency, and three community-based organizations, Housing and Community Development's Realignment Housing Program provides a range of supports to people on probation supervision under Criminal Justice Realignment. The goal of the program is to assist participants to secure long-term stable housing that they can afford. The program also provides immediate assistance to participants who are homeless or at risk. Services include: housing case management, emergency shelter or transitional program settings, assistance securing long-term housing and short-term rental assistance. Flexibility allows responsiveness to the needs of participants. Referrals to the Program are made by Probation Deputies.

Adult Services

The BSCC collected the following information from the Amador County Probation Department website to highlight the county's approach to Adult Services.

With the passage of the 2011 Public Safety Realignment Act, Amador County stakeholders determined, among other reforms and new programs, that the Alternative Sentencing Program needed to be revamped to assist the local criminal justice system to handle realigned offenders. The Amador County Probation Department and the Amador County Sheriff's Office have partnered and changed the way offenders are allowed to serve their jail sentences. Offenders are assessed using an evidenced-based assessment tool to assist officers in making a determination as to whether offenders qualify to serve their jail sentences in an alternative manner. If qualified, offenders are allowed to serve their sentences by performing community service or by being monitored via a GPS unit strapped to their legs. Officers monitor offenders' compliance and if/when warranted, offenders can/will be returned to jail custody.

Amador County stakeholders approved the use of Realignment Act funds to offer Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (MRT) for offenders under the supervision of the Probation Department. A Health and Rehabilitation Specialist from Amador County Health and Human Services attended training offered by Correctional Counseling Inc. to deliver this program. MRT™ is the premiere cognitive-behavioral program for substance abuse treatment and for criminal justice offenders. MRT™ programs are used in 49 states. Correctional Counseling Inc. developed MRT-based programming for individuals with chronic substance abuse problems, anger management and domestic violence issues.

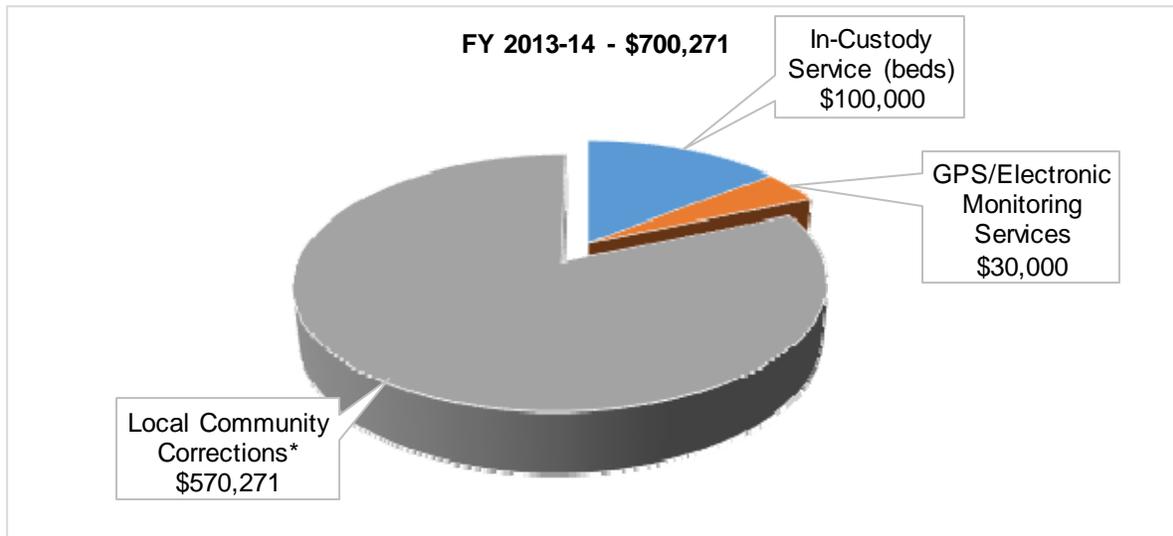

The Amador County Probation Department has also partnered with the Amador County Library to provide the Probation Literacy Assistance Network or P.L.A.N. program. The Probation Department and Library Literacy Services Program have networked resources in this unique partnership to offer offenders the opportunity to build a more constructive and successful future for themselves.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

The Community Corrections Partnership budgets funding based on need and does not "allocate" funds to any one department. The budget sits outside of any one department, but the Probation Department is responsible for the budget. The county maintains its initial implementation budget as a base and allocates money each year based on needs above and beyond that base.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 how did the CCP budget for programs and services?

*All other programs and services are provided by staff funded under the CCP budget.

Risk/Need Assessments

A previous management audit conducted in 1998 identified the need to implement a comprehensive risks/needs assessment instrument for the Probation Department as a whole. The push for evidence-based program (EBP) implementation via SB 678 and Public Safety Realignment gave impetus to securing a contract with Assessments.com (ADC) in FY 2009-10. Although training was completed for its use, full implementation of the Static Risk and Offender Needs Guide (STRONG) assessment was never completed across the entire adult caseload. Full risk/needs assessments were completed on all Post-Release Community Supervision offenders through the 1st quarter of 2014; however, it was not until the 2nd quarter of 2014 that initial risk assessments were completed on the majority of adult offenders. At that time, 85% of adult offenders on formal probation were assessed for risk, excluding offenders on warrant and various other like categories. The data indicates that for the entire adult population on formal probation, approximately 24% are high risk, 33% are medium risk, and 42% are low risk for committing a serious or violent felony offense.

Due to the ADC contract expiring in December 2013 and various other factors including the ability to integrate with the Department's case management system, the decision was made to transition to the Correctional Assessment and Intervention System™ (CAIS) instrument maintained by the National Council on Crime & Delinquency (NCCD). Training on the CAIS was completed at the beginning of May and is now fully implemented with policies in place to complete an initial full assessment on each offender and reassessment every 6 months.

Correctional Assessment and Intervention System (CAIS)™

The Correctional Assessment and Intervention System (CAIS) is a supervision strategy model that weaves together a risk assessment and a needs assessment- in one face-to-face assessment interview. The interview focuses on the underlying motivation for criminal behavior and prepares workers to best manage the supervision relationship. It builds rapport, and is one of the defining aspects of the assessment process.

CAIS helps workers identify the important issues they will face during supervision. Focusing on the underlying motivation for criminal behavior increases the chances for potential for success. Seven separate evaluations of the CAIS supervision assessment (formerly known as Client Management Classification or CMC) by separate researchers in five states have found a significant reduction in recidivism.

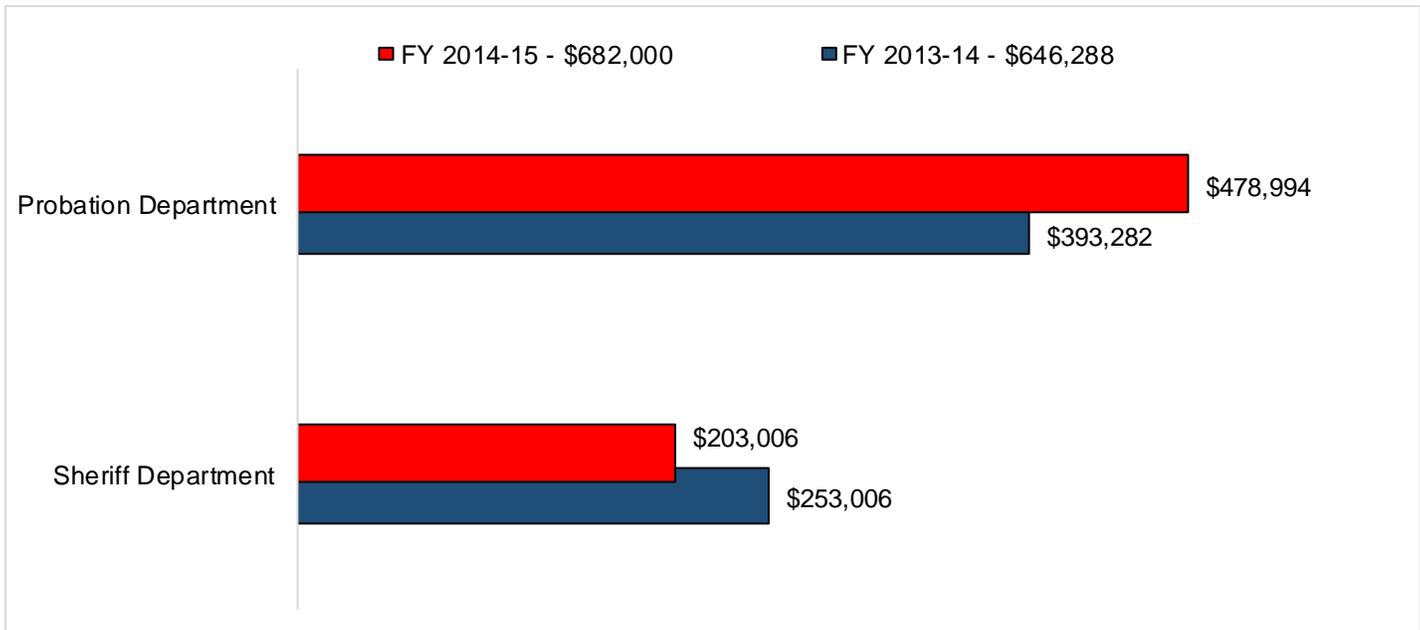

Based on the risk and needs assessment, CAIS provides concrete supervision strategies and recommends programs most likely to produce success. Gender-specific program and supervision recommendations for females, developed by NCCD's Center for Girls and Young Women, are also part of CAIS. In facilities and residential settings, CAIS helps direct housing and program assignments, reducing conflict and producing a safer and more stable environment for both staff and offenders.

The risk assessment used in the CAIS system is research-based and has been employed and validated widely across the United States. As part of each CAIS implementation project, NCCD validates the risk instrument periodically and customizes the instrument for each agency to ensure it optimally classifies cases.

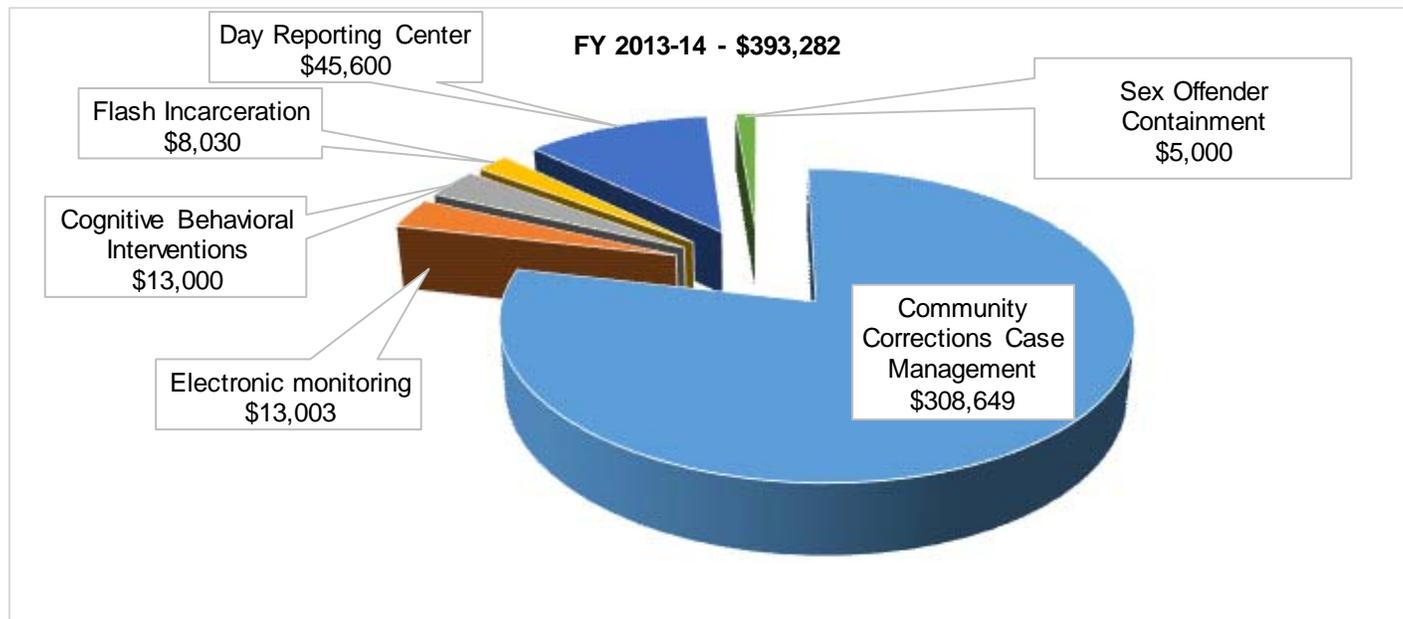

CAIS can lead to more effective and efficient use of worker time and lessens an offender's time on supervision, which, in the long term, may produce smaller caseloads and more time for offenders who most require services and supervision.

Additional information on CAIS can be found on the National Council on Crime and Delinquency webpage at <http://www.nccdglobal.org/assessment>.

Specialty Courts

Adult Felony Drug Court

The Adult Felony Drug Court program focuses on helping parenting adults who are struggling with alcohol and drug use and have committed non-violent felony crimes, and who are not eligible for Proposition 36 or Dependency Drug Court.

Adult Felony Drug Court targets people, especially pregnant women and parenting adults, who are struggling with substance abuse and who have committed non-violent felony crimes. The program is a collaborative effort between numerous agencies in El Dorado County, including the Public Health Department, Superior Court, District Attorney's Office, Public Defender, Sierra Recovery Center and the Probation Department.

Participants in the Adult Felony Drug Court receive outpatient and residential substance abuse treatment, if indicated, and submit to frequent drug testing. They must also come to court a minimum of once every two weeks to have their progress reviewed by the judge. The judge actively monitors each participant throughout the course of treatment and provides incentives and encouragement for those who are doing well. Incentives include stones, candy and Starbucks gift cards.

To successfully graduate from the program, individuals must remain clean and sober, and complete the objectives in their treatment plans and terms of probation. For most individuals, the program takes one year to 18 months to complete.

Behavioral Health Court

The Behavioral Health Court Program targets mentally ill adults and transitional-aged youth that have entered the justice system.

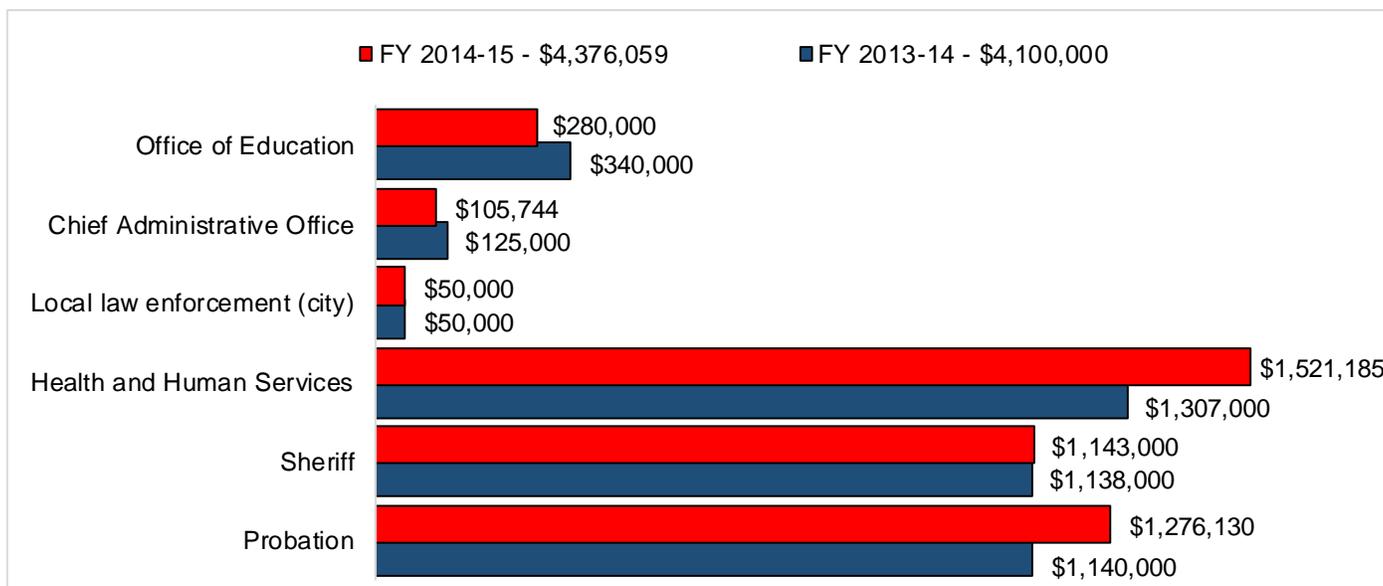

The El Dorado County Behavioral Health Court is an intensive program designed to evaluate, treat, and monitor participants while providing coordinated and comprehensive mental health treatment and ancillary services. The Behavioral Health Court program is a strong community collaboration model, which provides for system integration. The judicial system, law enforcement, probation, and mental health systems form the Behavioral Health Court Team, and a clinical mental health manager works closely with each participant to successfully implement an integrated, individualized service plan that is strengths-based and culturally competent. The Behavioral Health Court Team draws on the expertise and mutual commitment of its members and represents a problem-solving approach to address unmet mental health needs.

Additional information on El Dorado County Adult Felony Drug Court and Behavioral Health Court can be found in the county's FY 2011-12 Public Safety Realignment Implementation plan and on the County of El Dorado, Superior Court webpage at <http://www.eldoradocourt.org/nts/specialty.aspx>

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

The county is seeing positive results with the implementation of a new Community Corrections Center (CCC). The CCC targets El Dorado County’s Mandatory Supervision and Post-Release Community Supervision population with a high recidivism risk by providing wraparound services and programming designed to decrease the likelihood of re-offending.

Programming and services include alcohol and drug counseling, mental health counseling, case management with a public health nurse and public guardian staff, and educational services. A key component of the CCC programming is Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (MRT), which targets criminalistic thinking. Early indications are that this evidence-based practice is working to break criminogenic thinking patterns in CCC clients. In addition, MRT™ is starting to be used in the jails.

FRESNO COUNTY SURVEY RESPONSE

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

The CCP reports it will hold a public meeting after January 1, 2015 to establish funding priorities for the county. After these priorities and rankings are established and budgets determined, the CCP will begin the process of identifying goals and objectives with outcomes measures.

The BSCC collected the following information from the Fresno County Community Corrections Partnership, AB 109 Implementation Plan 2014 - 2nd Update.

Data and Evaluation

The firm of Owen Research and Evaluation was hired by the CCP to provide the CCP evaluative services as required and approved in the AB 109 Implementation Plan for Fresno County. The overall focus of activity has been to create an objective and evidence-based evaluation and quality assurance plan for the county. In addition, the introduction of proposed expansion of research efforts including the PEW supported Results First Initiative, the Public Policy Institute of California and the Urban Institute, have required new methods of data management.

Proposed Request for Proposal

Employment Assistance

After stable housing, one of the most important components of successful community corrections is employment which was originally described in the county's 2011 AB 109 Implementation Plan. Research supports that finding employment is a critical step for offenders to reduce recidivism, and that employment training is a critical element of rehabilitation.

The purpose of the contract would be to provide employability services for offenders that have little-to-no work experience, have difficulty keeping a job, to assist in learning workplace technology, employability and job placement services. Ancillary services such as coaching, counseling services including substance abuse education, and social work services that focus on pro-social development to increase job retention would also be part of the contract. The CCP has allocated approximately $400,000 for this RFP.

Pew-MacArthur Results First Initiative

Fresno County and local criminal justice stakeholders are participating in both state and national initiatives to assist county leaders in the development and implementation of evidence-based practices to guide decision-making processes. In January 2014, the Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a commitment to work with Results First. The Fresno Results First benefit-cost model can assist the county in directing investments to improve public safety and reduce recidivism without additional spending.

Additional information on the Fresno Results First model can be found on the Pew-MacArthur Results First Initiative webpage at, <http://www.pewtrusts.org/en/research-and-analysis/fact-sheets/2014/05/20/the-pewmacarthur-results-first-initiative-in-california>.

The CCP reports it will identify goals in FY 2014-15, therefore the BSCC collected the following information from the Glenn County Community Corrections Partnership, AB 109 Local Public Safety Realignment Initial Implementation Plan.

Housing, Education, Employment, and Treatment

To the extent that resources are available, efforts will be made to develop and implement supportive treatment services for the Community Corrections Partnership by social service, health, community action, education and community-based organizations. The implementation of the plan will focus on developing comprehensive case management services to the target population and will leverage other funding sources to include basic needs and innovative programming such as, but not limited to, housing, access to food, financial literacy, job training, employment services, work experience, life skills, education and treatment. The ultimate goal is to reduce recidivism and promote self-sufficiency services for this population.

Services related to community action, social services, and community-based organizations will focus on case management and eligibility for services that meet basic living needs and result in self-sufficiency using AB 109 revenue while leveraging other funds as feasible. The county will partner with local organizations and community-based partnerships to ensure a coordinated effort and that a case plan is in place in conjunction with the Probation Department. For example, the Community Re-Entry Work Program was launched in Glenn County on May 2011 to specifically address the re-entry population in Glenn County and focus on stabilization of housing, job training and employment services. This program under AB 109 would expand to promote intense case management for a period of 12 months and coordinate efforts with local stakeholders, such as the courts, law enforcement and the Probation Department.

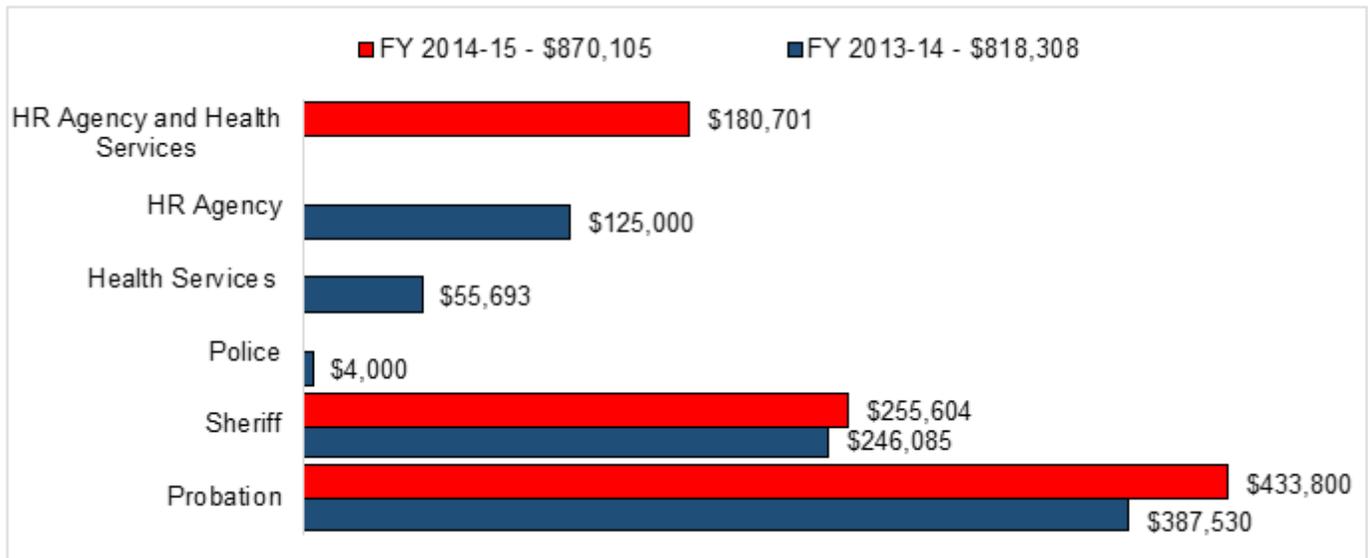

Services related to health and treatment will focus on leveraging and matching AB 109 realignment revenue with other local, state, and federal funding in order to expand available resources, health and treatment services will be coordinated through the Probation Department, consistent with individualized plans, to the extent that resources are available; to assist with the care of parolees, reduce recidivism, and support individuals in the community. Provider agencies will work with the Community Corrections Partnership to develop and implement programs and strategies that maximize resources, use evidence-based practices, and provide ongoing evaluation of efforts to assure effectiveness.

Services related to education will focus on the development of a partnership between the Glenn County Office of Education, a charter school, and the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) with the intent of creating education delivery specific services to the WIA population that result in a high school diploma and employable skills. These services can be provided in a jail and community setting with the intent of capturing revenue that is separate and apart from AB 109 realignment and most effective if included in an individual plan that is developed and required as a condition of probation.

CCP subcommittees and/or workgroups

- AB 109 Work Group: Membership consists of the Probation Department, Sheriff's Office, Office of Education, Child Support Division, Health and Human Services, Community Action Department, Mental Health, and Drug/Alcohol Services. The workgroup meets to develop and implement programs, discuss staff caseloads, and communicate areas of concerns.

KINGS COUNTY SURVEY RESPONSE

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2013-14.

Goal	Implement a system of alternatives to incarceration for pre-and-post convictions
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Post-convictions will be screened for alternatives to incarceration</li> <li>• Pre-convictions will be screened for alternatives to incarceration</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Number of post-convictions enrolled in programs that are alternatives to incarceration</li> <li>• Number of pre-convictions enrolled in programs that are alternatives to incarceration</li> </ul>
Progress	In FY 2013-14 477 offenders participated in the electronic monitoring program. In addition, 45 offenders participated in the day reporting center, and 22 offenders participated in the Residential Treatment program. Approximately 90 offenders have been referred to and participated in the Parks and Grounds Community Service Program. Although completion rates for these Alternatives to Incarceration Programs are still being established, staff is continuing its efforts to track the data related to the objectives.

Goal	Collaborate with local agencies to provide local resources to Post-Release Community Supervised offenders (PRCS) as efficiently as possible
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Screen all PRCS offenders to determine criminogenic needs and bridge them to the appropriate local agency resources</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Referrals (to all involved stakeholders once systems and/or programs have been fully developed and implemented)</li> <li>• Recidivism Rates for non-violent, non-serious and non-sex offenders</li> </ul>
Progress	Collaboration is an ongoing effort and continues between all stakeholders. This goal encompasses a broad range of services and tracking potential. It includes both the Probation and Sheriff's departments working together and collaborating with the Human Resources Agency for medical coverage needs, the Job Training Office for vocational and job search needs, the Behavioral Health Department for mental health service needs, as well as collaboration with local community-based organizations such as the Kings Community Action Organization and Champions Recovery Inc. to address the needs of the targeted non, non, non offender population in Kings County. Collaboration between stakeholders remains a priority, and the County is continuing to focus on this effort by working to determine the wide range of needs for the targeted populations and working on systems and/or programs between all stakeholders to coordinate services that correspond to these needs. Once these systems/programs are in place, the County will be able to better track the outcomes of their collaboration efforts, primarily by means of referrals. Staff will continue its efforts to capture and track recidivism data now that there is a BSCC-approved definition of the measure.

The Day Reporting Center (DRC) is an evidence-based model of collaboration aimed at the treatment of co-occurring symptomology (mental health and substance use), as well as recidivism reduction. The DRC has been in operation for approximately 20 months and is continually building capacity as the facility and staffing grow to accommodate the increases in referrals into programming. All participants are required to submit to a pre-and post-Static Risk and Offender Needs Guide (STRONG) assessment in order to determine statistical differences between the pre-and-post scores on risk and protective scales. Overall, there have been 56 individuals who have completed the pre-assessment; however, due to length of programming application (12 months) and natural attrition with this indicated population, 32 have completed the post assessment. Overall scores demonstrate a reduction in risk factors (substance use, familial dysfunction, negative attitudes/behaviors, poor coping skills, aggression, residential instability, association with antisocial peers, and lack of suitable education/employment) in at least two areas, while there was an increase in protective factors (positive/stable educational opportunities, sobriety, treatment of mental health symptomology, prosocial peer associations, and increased stability in familial health) for at least three areas. Additionally, all participants participate in evidence-based modules of programming in which pre-and-post measures are also completed in order to track program efficacy. Such modules include: skills for successful living; family ties; self-control; peer relationships; substance abuse; responsible thinking; social values; co-occurring disorders, and criminal thinking.

The Probation Department has seen a 20% increase in evidence-based programming (EBP) completion. This statistic illustrates awareness of available programs, a willingness of clients to participate, and that program completion is improving. The county anticipates having good data within the next few years. This will allow for comparisons of clients that participate and complete EBP to those that do not, and to determine how successful programs are.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

A promising program is the Correctional Community Transition Program, which is based inside the jail and includes Courage to Change, Family Focus and Drug and Alcohol classes.

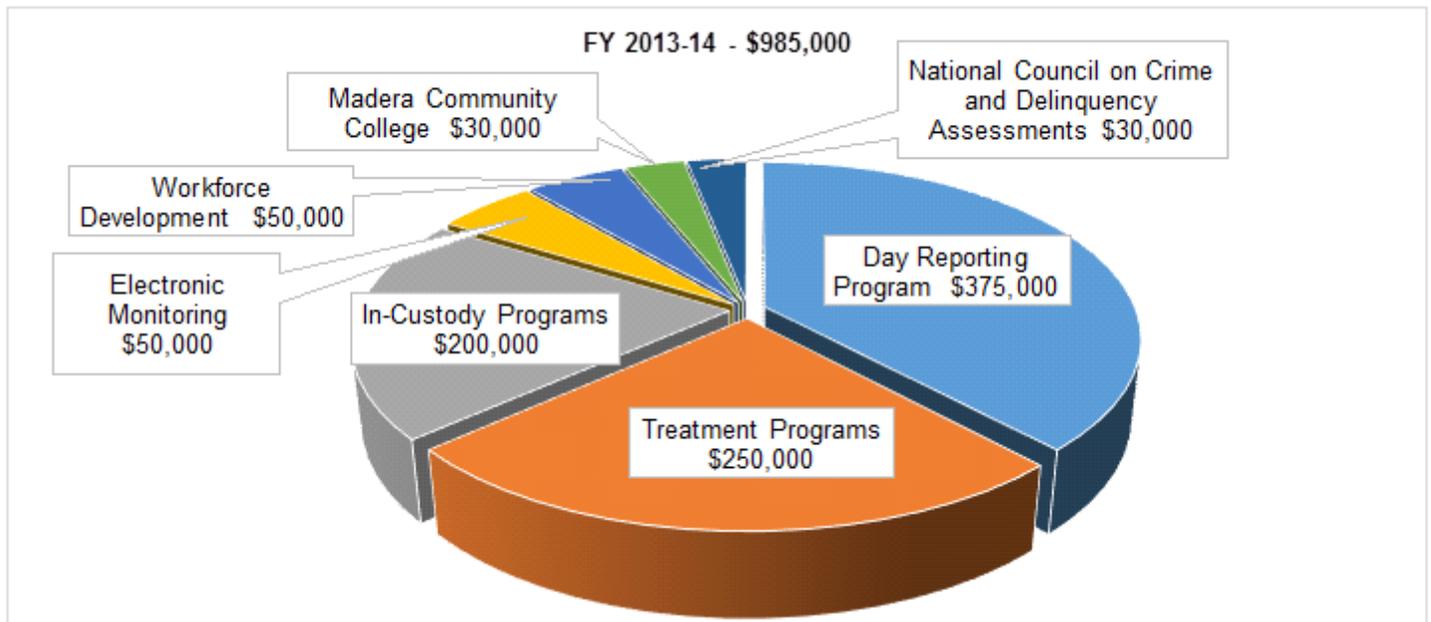

There were 14 graduates from the Correctional Community Transition Program through June 26, 2014. To date only one client, as per our new definition of recidivism, committed a new offense and was returned to custody. Although it has been operational for only six months, this is proving to be a promising program.

Funding Review Committee

Members: Chief Probation Officer, Sheriff and Chief of Police

Purpose: Review all funding requests to determine if proposals are complete, discern additional needed information, and make an initial assessment of merit. Proposals must be approved by the sub-committee prior to being scheduled for a presentation to the entire executive committee for a final vote on funding.

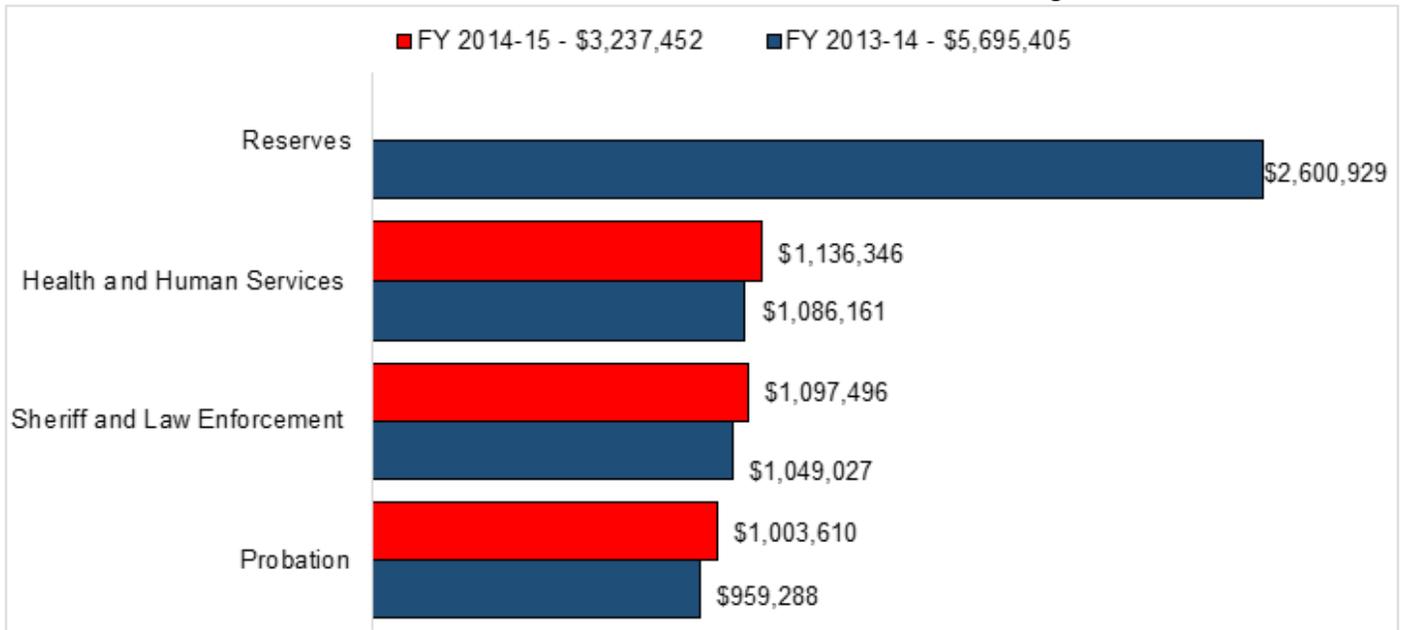

Program Review Committee (s)

Facilitators: Chief of Alcohol Drug and Tobacco and Chief Probation Officer

Members: Representatives from all county agencies, community partners, and any interested parties.

Purpose: In 2011 these committees were established to make recommendations on how to spend initial funding. Committees were reconvened in December 2014 following a three year report to determine how best to leverage additional funding to enhance, expand and add to programs that meet the needs of the growing population and the larger local criminal justice system.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

*FY 2013-14: Marin County received a programmatic base allocation of $5,408,045 and a growth amount of $287,360 in FY 13-14 for a total allocation of $5,695,405. With future levels of funding still unclear, the County maintained a cautious approach to funding and maintained healthy reserves in the amount of $2,600,929, or 45% of received funds. Of the $3,094,476 that was allocated for services, Probation programming received 31%, Sheriff and Law Enforcement programs received 33.9% and Health and Human Services programs received 35.1%.

FY 2014-15: Marin County maintained baseline programs from FY 2013-14 for a total budget of $3,237,454. Probation programming received 31%, Sheriff and Law Enforcement programs received 33.9% and Health and Human Services programs received 35.1%. Following the announcement of the Reallocation Committee on funding formulas for the next three years, the CCP has convened planning committees to determine the allocation of an additional $2 million dollars in programming to meet the needs of the growing population and the larger criminal justice system.

- The county has achieved an 88 percent success rate (no new convictions) on the AB 109 population to date. 100 percent of the AB 109 population has received or been linked to rehabilitative services, including mental health, substance abuse, anger management, re-entry or basic life skills programs
- Statewide and local data show the crime rate has not increased in Mariposa County during the roll out of AB 109 programs. The county has successfully managed the local jail population by developing alternative sanctions, such as the work program at the local land fill
- Split sentences are being used on most of the 1170(h) population; supervision of high risk offenders has increased through multi-agency collaboration
- Partnering with local service providers has allowed for more community supervision by probation officers while case management activities are conducted by our partners

Mendocino County AIDS/Viral Hepatitis Network

In FY 2013-14 Mendocino County allocated $45,830 to the Mendocino County AIDS/Viral Hepatitis Network (MCAVHN) for a Chronic Users System of Care (CUSOC) Case Management Program. The MCAVHN Chronic Users System of Care Case Management Program offers the following services:

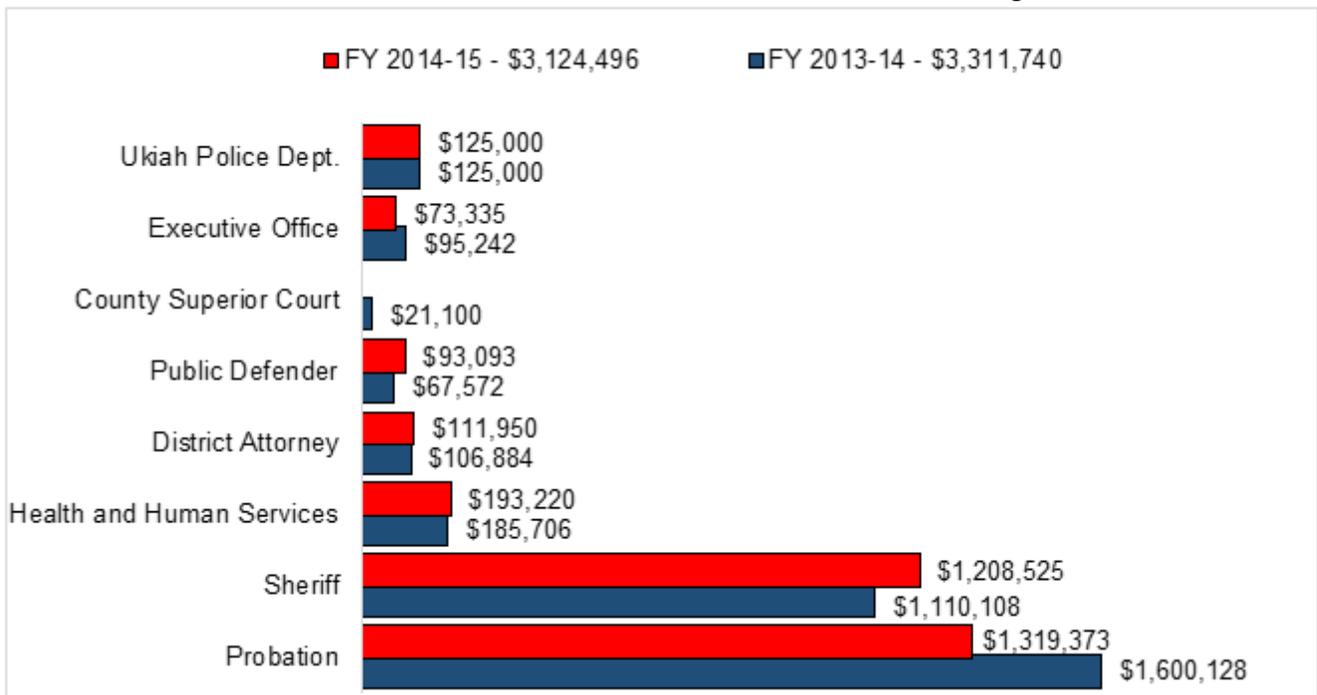

- Identify, intake and assess individuals with co-occurring disorders and/or chronic health issues who have high use of emergency departments medical services and/or jail services, and who have experienced serious barriers to obtaining and engaging with available community resources;
- Refer, encourage use of, and monitor services for primary medical and behavioral health care;
- Assess substance use and current level of engagement for recovery services (12-step based treatment, harm reduction, supportive counseling, etc.);
- Identify housing resources, make applications on behalf of clients, and monitor housing stability and capability; and
- Work with jail staff, Probation Department staff, the Public Defenders and District Attorney's offices to ensure that alternatives to incarceration are offered and considered on a case-by-case basis. AB 109 Behavioral Health (BH) staff are offering more comprehensive services through the use of Motivational Interviewing, Trauma Informed Services such as Seeking Safety, Cognitive Behavioral techniques, harm reduction and intensive therapeutic and case management services. As a result they are seeing incremental improvement over time, rather than bold changes.

Over the past several months, BH staff has implemented a women's Seeking Safety Group and a men's Aggression Replacement Training (ART) group weekly. Clients report that the frequency of these services have proven to be effective in that they develop a positive and healthy support system and a safe place to come and talk about their struggles.

BH staff is also working collaboratively with community partners to assess alternative approaches to treatment for clients with long term addictions through the use of Vivitrol®, an injectable form of Naltrexone, which helps in the treatment of alcohol dependence and opioid dependence.

BH planned to provide a training on Dialectical Behavioral Therapy in Spring 2015.

Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Number of clients in Mental Health Court</li> </ul>

The CCP reports it will use the same goal, objective and outcome measure identified above in FY 2014-15. The BSCC collected the following information from the Napa County Community Corrections Partnership, 2013-14 Public Safety Realignment and Post-Release Community Supervision Implementation Plan to highlight the county's approach to population management.

Proposed Implementation Strategies

Population Management programs, including realigned offenders, will focus on three groups:

Pre-trial defendants: Using a combination of SB 678 and Realignment Funds, the Probation Department will develop a Pre-trial Services Unit at the jail to interview defendants as they are booked, check references, and make recommendations so judges can quickly make informed decisions about recognizance release. Safeguards such as electronic monitoring or day reporting can be included in release conditions where appropriate. Additionally, pre-filing diversion programs will be reviewed and implemented as needed. Community referrals and linkages will be made by the Probation Officers assigned to this program. Further interventions will be considered and reviewed on the basis of policy discussions and analysis of jail bookings. These include modifications to the bail schedule, police-based crisis intervention and diversion, and enhanced day reporting for defendants whose social service needs would otherwise prevent them from being released on recognizance.

Sentenced Offenders: Risk assessments will be conducted prior to sentencing when a pre-sentence report is being completed. Results of the assessment highlighting the risk and needs of the offender will be included in the report to assist in evidence-based sentencing. It will be crucial to have sufficient resources to assist offenders in being successful. Referrals to programs will be based on assessment data and could include additional assessments, education and treatment programs, community referrals and linkages, housing assistance and a pre-release program. Additionally, a jail vocational program may be warranted.

Less restrictive settings that may be used include electronic monitoring, home detention, work release, and day reporting - including the program-oriented day reporting program at the Community Corrections Service Center, with appropriate variations for new clients. These variations would address the needs of realigned offenders who may pose higher risk than current program clients, as well as less risky offenders who serve all or part of their sentences on day reporting or electronic monitoring in lieu of total confinement. Addressing the behavioral health needs of offenders may support such alternatives. A victim advocate will be added to the District Attorney's office to assure compliance with Marsy's Law prior to releasing inmates into an alternative to custody program..

Probation Violators. The Probation Department has designed a matrix of sanctions and rewards, ranging from counseling through "flash incarceration" to revocation of community status, which will provide guidance on responses to violations based on the needs of the offender and the severity of the violation, as well as reward positive behavior.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

FY 2013-14 allocation was $2,923,780. The CCP has carryover from prior fiscal years to staff a secure facility (re-entry program) that will be built with SB 1022 funds. The facility is expected to be operational in 2019.

FY 2014-15 allocation was $2,708,890. The CCP has carryover from prior fiscal years to staff a secure facility (re-entry program) that will be built with SB 1022 funds. The facility is expected to be operational in 2019.

In October 2014 the Probation Department partnered with a community-based organization (a substance abuse provider) to address the need for additional non-faith-based sober living. This is new territory for the CBO but they have requested probation's help with rules/regulations and to build the program. Six participants are currently in the program. Probation officers are at the residence weekly and the program has been successful in meeting the housing needs and in helping clients remain sober, thus reducing recidivism with the participants in the program. There is optimism about the partnership and hope we can continue to solve these types of issues in our community.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

The use of a validated risk/need assessment as a local best practice has shown positive results. More offenders are supervised on appropriate caseloads, resulting in higher-quality contacts with officers. Smaller caseload sizes have provided officers the opportunity to set goals with offenders and help offenders reach goals while keeping the community safe.

The establishment of a day reporting center in Quincy has provided an increasing number of offenders opportunities to participate in Anger Management Groups, Job Readiness Classes, Substance Abuse Classes, Community Work Service and other meaningful activities. We hope to have actual data by this time next year to support what appears to be a higher success rate for those individuals served by day reporting center participation.

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2013-14.

Goal	Improve assessment and pre-release operations
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Increase Probation and Sheriff collaboration by assessing offenders jointly with the Correctional Offender Management Profiling for Alternative Sanctions (COMPAS)</li> <li>• 100% of available Probation and Sheriff staff assigned to assessment/supervision units will receive training in COMPAS, which will be taught by certified Training for Trainers (T4T) staff</li> <li>• 100% of available Probation and Sheriff staff trained in COMPAS will receive training and booster training in Motivational Interviewing (MI)</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Number of staff who become COMPAS T4T</li> <li>• Number of staff (Probation and Sheriff) provided training for COMPAS</li> <li>• Number of staff (Probation and Sheriff) provided MI training and booster training</li> </ul>
Progress	In July 2013 four probation staff and two sheriff staff became COMPAS T4T certified. July 2013 through June 2014, 52 probation staff and five sheriff staff received training in COMPAS. Additionally, 27 probation staff and five sheriff staff received training in MI. The 100% objective was not met due to transfers and hiring of new staff, additionally trainings were not offered until the new fiscal year.

Goal	Increase in-custody re-entry and provisions of treatment services
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Expand medication support services for realigned offenders</li> <li>• 75% increase in the number of emergency and transitional beds available to realignment re-entry housing</li> <li>• 200% increase in the number of day reporting centers available in Riverside County</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Number of clinics offering medication support</li> <li>• Number of available emergency and transitional beds</li> <li>• Number of day reporting centers available</li> </ul>
Progress	During FY 2013-14 the county achieved its goal. Medication services support was solely provided through Detention Services and at Mental Health Facilities. Three regionally located "New Life" clinics were established to provide medication support to realigned offenders, resulting in a 300% increase. Additionally the number of reentry beds expanded from 30 to 79 beds, a 163% increase. One day reporting center remains open in the western region of Riverside, which was established in October 2012. A second location was planned to open in FY 2013-14; however the original day reporting center location was too small and would limit the program's ability to grow. The third location is in the Temecula region, was expected to open in February 2015, therefore this objective will carry over to FY 2014-15.

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known).

Sacramento County is working with the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC) to develop quantifiable, unbiased goals, objectives, and measures. The Board of State and Community Corrections (BSCC) and the PPIC are working together on an 11-county study of adult realignment. PPIC is in the unique position to standardize both data collection and evaluation to help shed light on successful local policies and practices. PPIC has offered both the state and the counties help to (a) develop realignment-relevant data to aid the BSCC in meeting its reporting obligations and its responsibility to support counties in the implementation of realignment; (b) assist counties in identifying data that will enhance county decision-making in the short term and management of community corrections populations in the long term; and (c) provide an empirical basis for evaluating various policies in relation to public safety and other outcomes. Local sources of data, such as the Probation and Sheriff's Departments, will be supplemented with data from the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation and the California Department of Justice (who can capture recidivism that occurs anywhere in the state of California, not just in Sacramento County). PPIC has begun collecting data and will be analyzing it in terms of demographic and historical data, effectiveness of services provided, and recidivism rates. This project is supported by the California State Sheriff's Association, the Chief Probation Officers of California, the California State Association of Counties, and the County Administrative Officers Association of California.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

Prior to release, Probation Officers meet realigned Mandatory Supervision (MS) and Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) offenders in County Jail and State Prisons to establish a general understanding of supervision, identify risks and needs, identify barriers to community reentry, and provide information about Adult Day Reporting Centers (ADRC). Officers provide reporting instructions (when/where); review conditions of supervision; determine if drug addiction, medical, mental health, housing, employment and transportation issues need to be addressed; provide community resource information; and link them to an Eligibility Specialist for enrollment in support programs such as General Assistance, Medi-Cal and CalFresh.

The County Jail and State Prison visits have shown very positive outcomes. Pre-release visits have resulted in 98% of PRCS offenders reporting to Probation upon release from State Prison and 95% of MS offenders reporting to Probation upon release from County Jail.

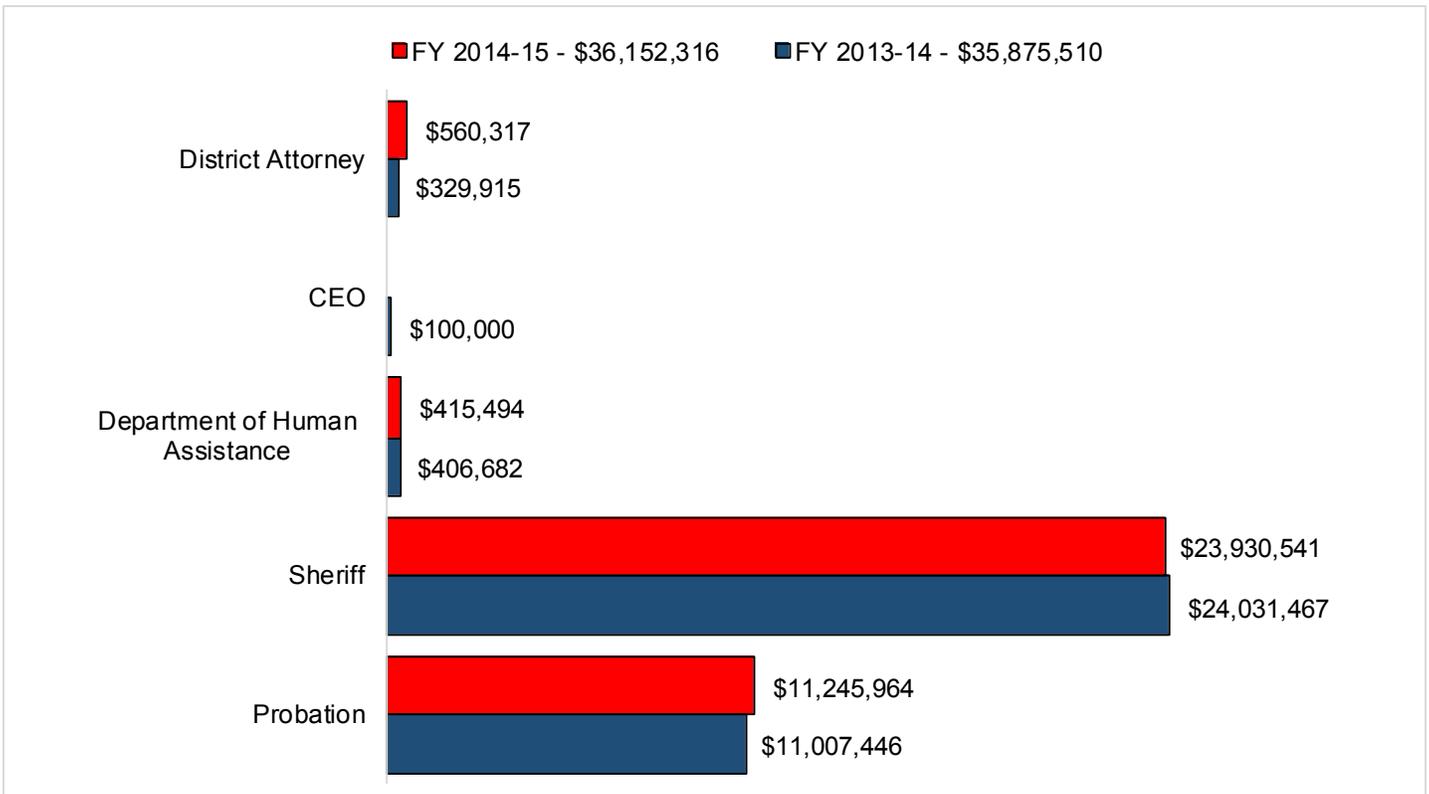

Prior to ADRC program entry and at graduation, individuals complete an interactive Level of Service-Case Management Inventory (LS-CMI) assessment interview. The LS-CMI is an evidence based, validated risk assessment and case management tool for treatment planning and management of offenders based on information within eight categories: 1) Criminal History, 2) Education/Employment, 3) Family/Marital, 4) Leisure/Recreation, 5) Companions, 6) Alcohol/Drug Problems, 7) Pro-criminal Attitude/Orientation, and 8) Antisocial Patterns. LS-CMI outcomes indicate the ADRC program has reduced risk level.

Probation's Adult Day Reporting Centers have also incorporated a Pre-and-Post-Criminal Sentiments Scale (CSS) survey that gauges the level of pro-social and pro-criminal attitudes before and after receiving cognitive behavioral services.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY SURVEY RESPONSE

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2013-14.

Goals	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Increased use of Split Sentencing</li> <li>• Expand services at day reporting centers and for specific need/risk. E.g. offenders with addictions, mentally ill offenders, gender specific programming, parenting, and programming for offenders with children</li> <li>• Data Collection and Evaluation</li> </ul>
Objective	Building upon successful practices to date, the CCP's objective moving forward is to maintain the delivery of supervision and services where they have impacted the recidivism rate and augment those services where additional resources are projected to enhance successful re-entry and public safety efforts. However, conclusions of success are predicated on reduced arrest and conviction rates; and casual factors and correlations for these reductions have not been scientifically established. Therefore, the CCP has prioritized a research project that will assist in San Bernardino's Realignment efforts.

The CCP reports it will use the same goals identified above in FY 2014-15. The BSCC collected the following information from the San Bernardino County 2014 Public Safety Realignment Plan to highlight the county's approach to Adult Day Reporting Centers.

Day Reporting Centers

The Probation Department opened three Adult Day Reporting (DRC) and Re-Entry Service Centers in San Bernardino, Victorville and the West End. These DRCs are the backbone of all services provided to the AB 109 offender population. They consist of a "one-stop shop" for offenders, who can meet with a probation officer or find all the resources necessary for rehabilitation.

Any offender can access an extensive array of rehabilitative programs at the DRCs. While the Probation Department is the lead agency in managing the DRCs, they are truly co-located sites, offering special programs and services from numerous agencies. The DRCs are centers of operation for the Probation Department's Homeless Coordinator. One officer is assigned to the Victorville DRC, and an additional officer is assigned to coordinate services from both the West End and Central DRCs. The probation department also participates in the Homeless Youth Task Force and Interagency Council on Homelessness, however, neither are based at the DRCs.

Unique services are also provided through the Day Reporting Centers. Transportation assistance is made available through bus passes to enable offenders to return for services, or obtain necessary transportation for other appointments or a job interview. Emergency resources may also be provided for offenders that need food, emergency clothing, or nicer clothing for job interviews. Workforce Development offers a range of services to assist offenders with the challenges faced by felons in preparing for and obtaining employment. Some resources made available to offenders are those that assist with the management of important tasks for those recently released from custody. Department of Motor Vehicle staff are available at the DRCs to assist offenders in obtaining valid identification or driver's licenses. Child Support Services workers are also present at certain times to assist with child support issues. Through a partnership with Operation New Hope, this community-based organization uses a grant to provide services for offenders with special needs that have a vulnerability in the workplace and require assistance finding employment.

The unit is staffed with 10 officers, and they are involved with various law enforcement partnerships. This includes, but is not limited to, the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department, coordinated multi-agency operations with the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) parole, local police departments, other probation agencies, and school police agencies.

Homeless Collaborations

Homeless assistance and community-based supervision services are available. Probation Officers are assigned to regionally based Day Reporting and Re-entry Services Center to provide Homeless Coordinator services. This involves a number of partnerships and collaborations with other agencies. Among the group of collaborating agencies is Public Health, the County's Interagency Council on Homelessness, Foothill AIDS Project, Victor Valley Family Resource Center, United Way 211, The Way church, and many others.

Domestic Violence Collaborations

The San Bernardino County Domestic Violence unit supervises more than 1,100 probationers. The unit provides community-based supervision, but incorporates a community engagement to educate the public about domestic violence (DV). Key collaborations included partnering with California State University, San Bernardino to provide DV presentations to more than 300 fraternity and sorority members in 2014. Other activities included collaborations with Saddleback College, Option House, San Bernardino Valley College, County of San Bernardino Public Defender's Office and District Attorney's Office, and New Life Christian Church.

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2013-14.

Goal	To efficiently use jail capacity
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Enhance pre-trial processes to more effectively use current jail capacity</li> <li>Improve and streamline felony settlement</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Change in percentage of jail capacity use for pre-trial detention, long term sentences, and revocations</li> </ul>
Progress	One effort that supports managing the jail capacity in San Diego County includes the establishment of the Residential Reentry Center (RRC), which is co-administered by the Sheriff and Probation Departments. Through our vendor, Correctional Alternatives Inc., staff at the RRC provide work readiness training and alternate custody options to designated individuals. About 155 individuals, on average, are housed at the RRC at any given time. In January 2012 the Sheriff also created the County Parole and Alternate Custody (CPAC) unit to provide alternate custody options for eligible jail inmates. This unit was designed to identify eligible inmates who are appropriate to be released from custody and monitored with electronic monitoring and/or GPS supervision. As of December 1, 2014, 37% (1,955) of the offenders in custody were realigned and through the CPAC Unit 374 offenders were placed in some sort of Alternate Custody, which may include the following: County Parole, Fire Camp, Home Detention, the Residential Reentry Center and Work Furlough.
Goal	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Incorporate evidence-based practices into supervision and case management of Post-Release Offenders</li> <li>Encourage the use of evidence-based practices in sentencing for Felony Offenders</li> </ul>
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Encourage the use of evidence-based practices in sentencing for Felony Offenders</li> <li>Provide evidence-based supervision and intervention services for Post-Release Offenders</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Use of risk and needs assessments in sentencing</li> <li>Risk-based supervision</li> <li>Referrals to appropriate community-based services</li> <li>Use of incentives and sanctions</li> <li>Use of Integrated Behavioral Intervention Strategies (IBIS) in supervision</li> </ul>
Progress	In FY 2013-14 Probation incorporated risk/need information in Probation sentencing reports. Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) and Mandatory Supervision (MS) offenders are assessed for levels of risk. As of December 2014, 77% of PRCS are identified as high risk, while 56% of MS offenders are high risk. Throughout FY 2013-14, using Probation's automated Community Resource Directory, 2,146 PRCS and MS offenders were referred to and engaged in at least one treatment service to meet an assessed criminogenic need. 99% of Post Release Offender Division officers are trained in motivational interviewing and cognitive-behavioral interventions. During fiscal year 2013-14, 64% of San Diego County's Realigned offenders (PRCS & MS) successfully completed their term of supervision. A total of 36% recidivated. (1,951 individuals completed; 701 were convicted of a new felony or misdemeanor during their supervision term).

The San Francisco Adult Probation Department (SFAPD) established the county's first alternative sentencing program for pregnant and parenting women in May 2014. The program is too new to offer data at this time, but offering women the opportunity to retain custody of their children while addressing criminogenic needs is critical to reducing recidivism and breaking inter-generational cycles of crime and victimization.

SFAPD is also in discussions with the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) about the Community Reentry Facility program, which would allow individuals in CDCR custody to return to the county up to two years in advance of their anticipated release date. This model has the potential to provide alternative custody options for high-need individuals who would otherwise not have access to vital reentry planning services and interventions.

The Jail Program Unit acts as the initial point of contact for AB 109 inmates in custody. Inmates' needs are assessed to assist in the development of re-entry plans and the coordination of inmate participation in services offered in the Jail. 71% of AB 109 inmates received one or more treatment services while incarcerated.

The Post Release Offender Meeting is a collaboration between Probation, Behavioral Health, Drug and Alcohol and several community agencies to provide screening and assessment of Post-Release Community Supervision (PRCS) offenders released from state prison. Of the 474 offenders released to San Luis Obispo County, 72% were screened for services and of these, 83.6% received at least one service hour of post-release treatment services. PRCS offenders completing post-release treatment services re-offend at a rate of 15.2% while those that did not complete treatment, re-offended at a rate of 51.4%.

Sober Living Environment providers working with the County Drug and Alcohol Services Agency were successful in expanding the number of beds throughout the County. In FY 2013-14, 119 AB 109 offenders benefitted from a sober living placement, staying an average of 96 days.

From January 2010 to March 2014, San Mateo County implemented the Achieve 180 (A180) program, funded by a grant from the Bureau of Justice Assistance. A180's goals were to reduce recidivism and support the successful transition back to the community for formerly incarcerated individuals. When the funding for A180 ended, the CCP established Service Connect, a partnership among HSA, the Health System (including Correctional Health and Behavioral Health and Recovery Services), and the Probation Department. Service Connect has, since March 2014, provided re-entry assistance to individuals under PRCS or sentenced to adult county jail pursuant to PC 1170(h) with Mandatory Supervision by Probation upon release.

Since March, 83 percent of Service Connect clients have received comprehensive medical assessments/visits through the San Mateo Public Health Mobile Clinics. This also results in fewer emergency room visits for this population. Additionally, 57 percent of Service Connect clients that participated in the 550 Jobs! program were subsequently placed in jobs.

The BSCC collected the following information from the Santa Cruz County Community Corrections Partnership, Public Safety Realignment and Post Release Community Supervision 2014-2015 Implementation Plan to highlight the county's planning process.

On October 4, 2011 the Santa Cruz County Board of Supervisors adopted a Community Corrections Implementation Plan developed by the Santa Cruz County CCP that provides an ongoing framework for local implementation of the California Public Safety Realignment Act. The plan's phased implementation strategy directs evenly divided resources to address goals in the areas of corrections, community supervision, and treatment services to the AB 109 population.

The initial implementation plan established a formula for allocation of AB 109 funding, beginning with a fixed amount ($200,000) for AB 109 administration, including all financial reporting, contract development and oversight, evaluation and reporting, and facilitation of ongoing work groups and other meetings. The remaining allocation from the State is distributed evenly, one-third each, between the three primary components of cost-effective alternatives to incarceration, evidence-based community supervision, and effective treatment and intervention services to address criminogenic needs.

During the second year of implementation, the CCP established a community process for selecting qualified organizations to provide services to the AB 109 population. Service areas were chosen based on assessed criminogenic needs of the first-year cohort. The process resulted in the establishment of an AB 109 Service Provider Network that supports a forensic assertive case management model operated by the Probation Department and the Custody Alternative Programs team.

During the third year of implementation service contracts were maintained and refined based on program outcomes and documented needs among the target population. The Service Provider Network emerged as a key focus of interagency coordination, cross-training and planning. Service providers participated in self-assessment and continuous program improvement with technical assistance from the Center for Advancing Correctional Excellence at George Mason University.

The BSCC collected the following information from the Santa Cruz County Probation Department 2014 Alternatives to Custody Report.

The following Outcome Measures, Performance Measures and Mission-Critical Data were adopted in 2012 and are measured annually to track the program's effectiveness in meeting agency and justice system goals

Appearance Rate: The percentage of supervised defendants who make all scheduled court appearances.

Appearance Rate	85.1%	89.0%	92.0%	90.3%	94.2%	Not Available
Goal			85%	85%	85%	85%

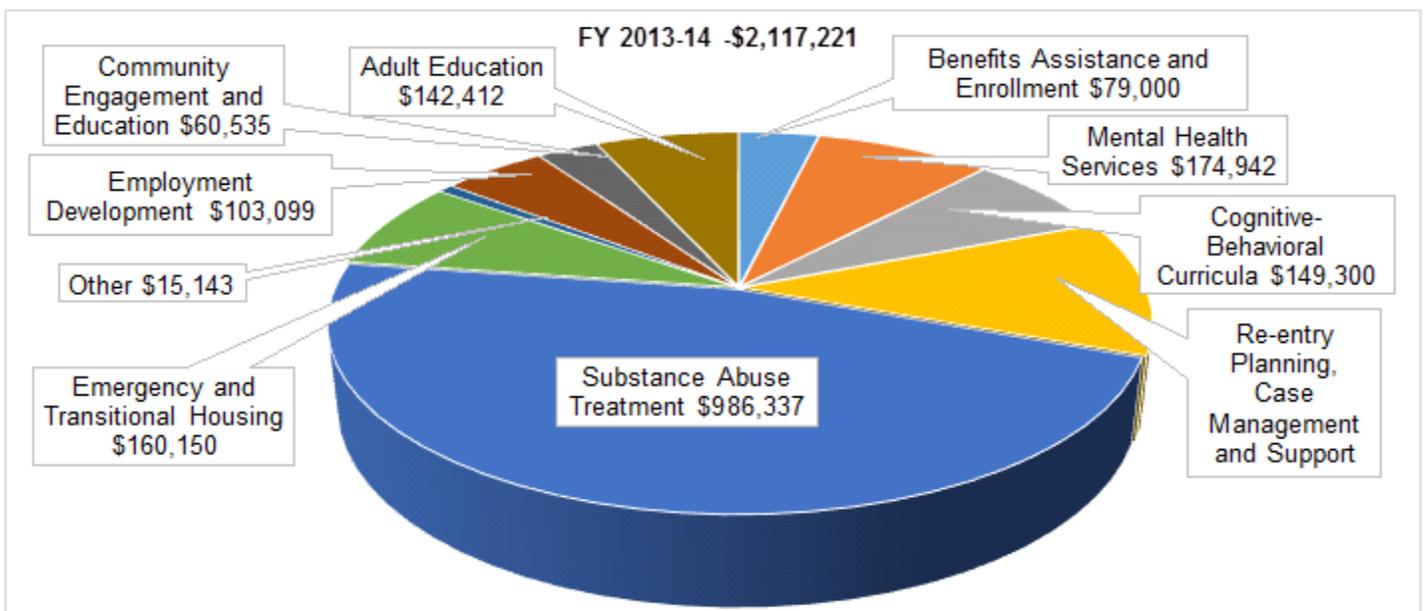

- The percentage of defendants released to pre-trial supervision that failed to appear was 5.8% during the first half of 2014 (7 of 121 participants)
- The percentage of defendants released to pre-trial supervision that failed to appear during the second half of 2014 is being analyzed
- The percent of defendants released pre-arraignment that failed to appear at arraignment was 24% during calendar year 2014 [an appearance rate of 76%]. This is an improvement over the 74% appearance rate in calendar year 2013

SHASTA COUNTY SURVEY RESPONSE

Community Corrections Partnership Plan Implementation

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known) from FY 2013-14.

Goal	Decrease the number of offenders who fail to appear at court hearings
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Develop and implement the Supervised Own Recognizance (SOR) Program</li> <li>Develop and implement Shasta County's Most Wanted (SCMW)</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Number of offenders on SOR</li> <li>Number of offenders on SOR completing the program</li> <li>Number of offenders on SCMW</li> <li>Number of sentenced offenders on SCMW</li> </ul>
Progress	SOR was implemented in February 2013 in order to supervise offenders prior to sentencing to assure attendance at court. In fiscal year 2013-14 there were approximately 163 offenders granted SOR with an average monthly case size of 36. Approximately 60% of the offenders on the program were successful in reaching sentencing without failing the program. SCMW was implemented in September 2013. To date, 236 offenders have been targeted in the program with 206 having been arrested and 30 outstanding. Of those offenders arrested, 195 have been sentenced. When the program started in September 2013, there were 516 offenders pending sentencing. One year later, that number has decreased to 397.

Goal	Increase offender engagement in cognitive-behavioral programs and Alcohol and Drug (AOD) Programs
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Contract with local community-based organization (CBO) to provide cognitive-behavioral programs in the jail</li> <li>Contract with local CBO to provide AOD education programs in the jail</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Contract with local CBO to provide cognitive-behavioral programs in the jail is operational</li> <li>Contract with local CBO to provide AOD education programs in the jail is operational</li> </ul>
Progress	An existing contract with a community-based organization was amended to provide Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (MRT) to offenders incarcerated at the county jail. One men's class and one women's class is held weekly, consisting of offenders who score moderate or high risk to reoffend on our local assessment tool. The program allows for seamless transition of offenders in and out of custody so that progress through the program is not impeded and engagement is increased. In addition, all offenders who score moderate risk to reoffend and have substance abuse or peer issues are referred to the MRT™ classes at the Community Corrections Center (CCC). During FY 2013-14 the Health and Human Services Agency (HHS) worked with its three Alcohol and Drug Outpatient Treatment providers to plan a program where weekly educational groups are provided within the jail. Existing contracts with these providers were amended to include these additional services, which began in August 2014. To date 101 inmates have participated in the classes and 10 have fully completed the four-week program.

- The day reporting center (DRC) has graduated seven offenders from the program. Of the offenders who have graduated the program, only one was remanded back to state prison. That crime was committed prior to the offender receiving treatment at the DRC.
- The Supervised Own Recognizance (SOR) Program supervised 184 offenders in FY 2013-14. Of these, 61 percent (112 offenders) completed the program successfully.
- The Step Up program is a collaborative effort between the Probation Department and the Sheriff's Office in conjunction with Shasta College. This program involves choosing offenders in custody at the jail who fit the high-to-moderate risk to re-offend criteria, as well as having education, financial stability and employment as top criminogenic needs. These offenders are then given the opportunity to participate in the Step-Up Program by enrolling at Shasta College in one-year certification programs involving heavy equipment operation, automotive repair and office administration, with the emphasis on reducing the recidivism rate in Shasta County through the educational process. During the first year, four participants completed the program. In addition to those participants, one enrolled in an Associate's Degree Program, two continue to be enrolled in certificate programs, and one completed a certificate program.
- Shasta County's Most Wanted was implemented in September 2013. To date 236 offenders have been targeted in the program, with 206 having been arrested and 30 outstanding. Of those offenders arrested, 195 have been sentenced. When the program started in September 2013, there were 516 offenders pending sentencing. One year later that number has decreased to 397.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

*Carry over contingency budget

** Rehabilitation and treatment is a priority in Sierra county in that most (if not all) behavior that brings defendants into the criminal justice system involves significant mental health and substance abuse problems which, if untreated, significantly increase the risks of criminal recidivism. The CCP board decided to maintain a contingency fund in the budget because in the past the Behavioral Health Department was unable to pay for certain services we consider important in order to have a successful rehabilitation program. The reasons for the inability to pay were essentially two: limited funding or eligibility criteria for non-county residents. Our county is very small and has limited specialized services, requiring us to use services offered in our neighbor county, Nevada County.

The CCP reports it will add or modify its goals, objectives and outcome measures in FY 2014-15.

Of the total cash received in FY 2013-14 and 2014-15 how did the CCP budget the allocation?

Siskiyou’s CCP takes an integrated approach, budgeting by line items that support coordinated implementation of the CCP Plan, as opposed to line items allocated to specific departments.

The county’s budget for programs and services in FY 2013-14 is reflected in the above explanation and chart.

CCP subcommittees and/or workgroups

- The CCP Executive Committee deliberates all CCP issues. Ad hoc committees or task groups are formed and meet, as needed, to address specific issues that require in-depth research and discussion, and include involvement of individuals outside of the CCP.
- The Realignment Team serves as a service coordination multi-disciplinary team to address individual service needs and other service issues such as referral processes.
- The Data Subcommittee convenes to address data collection and evaluation issues.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

Siskiyou CCP’s early and ongoing comprehensive planning efforts have resulted in integrated strategies that enhance resources through shared funding and service systems. Combining enforcement and treatment, emphasizing evidence-based approaches, enhancing prevention and early intervention resources and promoting local access have demonstrated early promising results.

One example is the District Attorney’s Pre-trial Diversion Program. During 2013, 81 individuals were referred, including 30 felonies, 53 successfully completed the program with one participant reoffending.

In another example a Correctional Services Specialist housed at the Day Reporting Center assists those in-custody, out- of-custody and drug court participants to access necessary services. These services include MediCal, CalFresh, alcohol and drug outpatient and in-patient services, job application assistance, and GED test preparation. The Corrections Services Specialist has created partnerships with local businesses and increased the number of offenders who have successfully gained employment.

During FY 2013-14 the Adult Division fully implemented treatment and other related services for identified moderate-to-high-risk clients at the Centers for Positive Change in Vallejo and Fairfield. The two sites have the capacity to each serve 75 clients for a total of 150 clients, at any given time. From October 2013 to December 2014, 340 clients received case management, mental health and substance-abuse treatment, job readiness and vocational training, and/or other services at the centers. ### Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known)

During FY 2013-14 the CCP reactivated its Data Management and Evaluation Subcommittee and tasked it with developing outcome measures for AB 109. The effort involves determining which outcome measures to report, in addition to creating a plan for data collection and management. The Subcommittee's project charter includes four primary phases: (1) creating a methodology for evaluating effectiveness of funded programs and services; (2) determining which outcome measures to report; (3) developing a plan for data collection and management; and (4) creating the reporting processes by which the accepted outcomes may be reported on a regular basis.

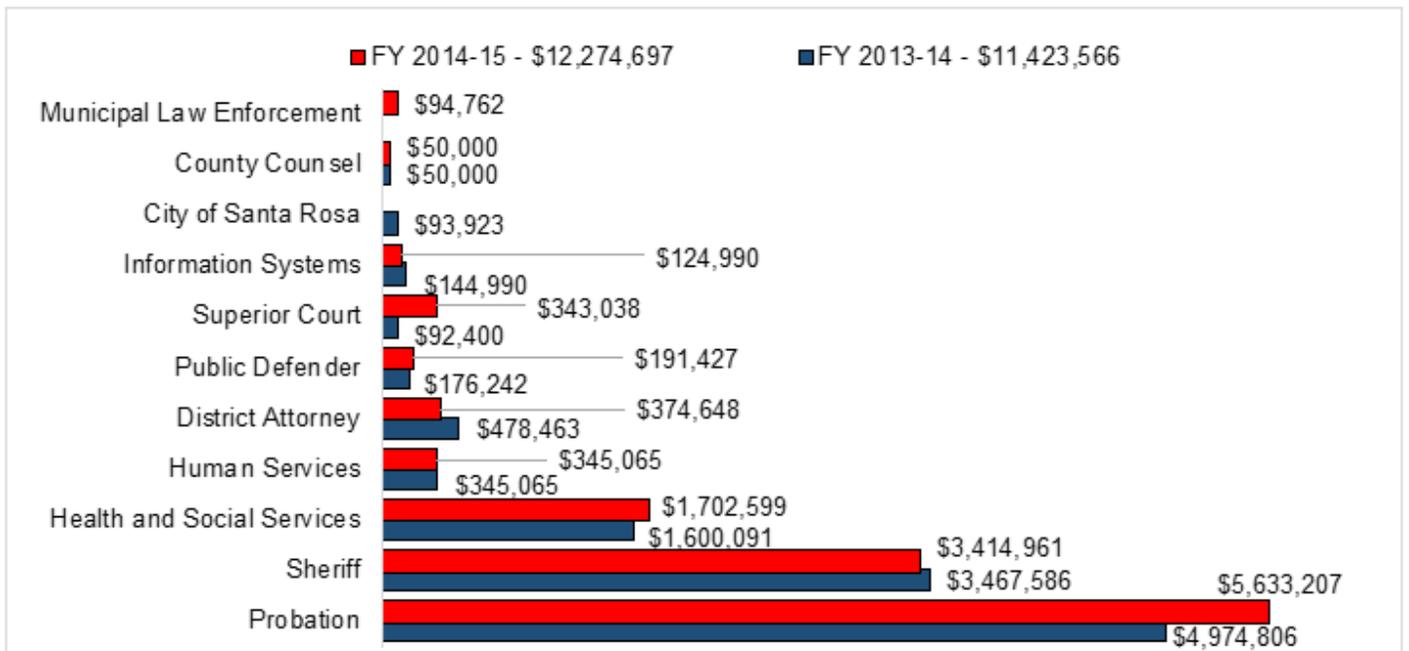

The subcommittee completed the first two phases of its charter during FY 2013-14. The subcommittee worked with stakeholder agencies to develop a high level system logic model for the CCP-s funded programs. The overarching system logic model describes inputs, activities, and system impacts, as well as defining short-term, intermediate, and long-term outcomes. The subcommittee also created individual program logic models for all funded programs and services that can be measured using defined outcomes. Each program logic model details: assumptions, planned resources, planned activities, planned outputs, short-term outcomes, mid-term outcomes, long-term outcomes, and system impacts.

During FY 2014-15, the subcommittee will further its data collection and evaluation work as follows: (1) refine the County's existing logic models; (2) develop an outcome evaluation plan based on finalized logic models; (3) conduct a gap analysis of current data collection systems relative to future reporting needs; (4) generate a plan for data collection and management; (5) produce an initial prototype outcome evaluation report; and (6) create reporting processes whereby County personnel can generate future reports on a recurring basis. The subcommittee's AB 109 evaluation efforts will be linked to the County's effort to update its Criminal Justice Master Plan in 2015. By linking the two activities, the County will maximize personnel and financial resources, and ensure deliverables and goals are mutually beneficial to both efforts. The subcommittee's work is still in progress as of December 2014, with an estimated completion date in the latter half of FY 2014-15.

CCP subcommittees and/or workgroups

- Data Management and Evaluation: Established in 2011 to assess both immediate and long-term data needs related to Public Safety Realignment. The subcommittee consisted of representatives from the criminal justice partners as well as the Courts, Santa Rosa Police Department, Information Systems (ISD), Health and Human Services, and the County Administrator's Office. The subcommittee was reactivated in the fall of 2013.
- Detention Alternatives and Programming: Formed in 2011 to develop recommendations for services and programming needed to support reintegration of realigned offenders in the local community. The CCP reactivates this subcommittee in January of each year to support development of the annual Public Safety Realignment Plan. Each year, the subcommittee solicits new program proposals, service recommendations, and other inputs from various community stakeholders. The subcommittee collaborated closely with - and received direct input from - the following departments: Probation, Sheriff, Health Services, Human Services, County Counsel, District Attorney, Public Defender, and Information Systems. Additionally, community-based organizations were invited to participate in the CCP and subcommittee meetings and to submit proposals for new programs. Through collaboration and active participation in the planning process, these stakeholders helped shape the decisions and recommendations of the CCP.
- Supervision: Active during 2011 planning phase only. Developed overall strategy and model for community supervision of realigned offenders in the local community. Reviewed and provided recommendations for updating existing policies, procedures, and protocols.
- Sentencing: Active during 2011 planning phase only. The subcommittee, chaired by the presiding judge, focused on local sentencing strategies for the realigned population of non-violent, non-serious, and non-sex offenders. The subcommittee also evaluated issues pertaining to offenders released to Post-Release Community Supervision.

Describe a goal, objective, outcome measure and goal progress (if known)

Goals for FY 2013-14 were not provided, but the CCP reports it will develop goals in FY 2014-15 pending the hiring of a crime analyst, therefore the BSCC collected the following information from the Stanislaus County Community Corrections Partnership, 2013 Public Safety Realignment Plan.

Local Services

Integrated Forensics Team (Expansion)

According to Justice Center reports, nearly 70 percent of adults entering jails have a substance abuse disorder and approximately 17 percent of adults entering jails and state prisons have a serious mental illness. Typically in Stanislaus County, these individuals are referred to programs provided by Behavioral Health and Recovery Services (BHRS), such as the Integrated Forensics Team (IFT) or other programs supported by the Mental Health Services Act (MHSA). IFT is a multi-disciplinary program providing comprehensive mental health and co-occurring services for adults on probation who are underserved and either homeless or at risk of homelessness, have frequent contact with law enforcement, and/or are frequent users of hospital and emergency room services. Services include: case management, crisis response, family support, housing and employment assistance, mental health rehabilitation, medication support, peer support and 24/7 coverage. Both IFT and MHSA programs were at capacity and not able to absorb the increased demands for service for the realigned population without expanding the existing programs. Most mentally ill offenders have either not had benefits established that would cover mental health treatment or they have had benefits suspended.

Nirvana Drug and Alcohol Treatment Institute

Nirvana Drug and Alcohol has been providing treatment services for corrections clientele since 1997. Residential treatment is more cost effective than incarceration, and residents are in an environment set up for education and therapy to address their substance abuse issues. There are currently limited options for AB 109 offenders needing residential treatment in Stanislaus County. Since January 2013, three AB 109 offenders have received services at no charge through Nirvana. Funding is recommended to support up to 30 clients per year to receive residential services through the program. The program will report outcomes using the California Outcomes Measurement System, which is a compiled by the state.

El Concilio

Funding is recommended to implement a client Re-entry Program in Stanislaus County. Services will include intensive wrap-around case management services, as well as screenings/assessments and access to services, tracking and evaluating participants' progress, and coordination of services with other collaborative agencies. Case managers hold weekly check-ins with participants and link clients into services such as faith-based support groups, NA/AA, food banks, Salvation Army and Good Will. The program will be piloted in Stanislaus County and will be similar to the Re-Entry program being provided by El Concilio in San Joaquin County. In San Joaquin, 51% of the offenders obtained full-time employment and housing and 93% had their cases closed successfully for probation purposes. These offenders continue to receive services through El Concilio. Specific outcomes will be tracked for the pilot program to measure the program's effectiveness in Stanislaus.

Sutter County has had impressive results from our Employment Specialist, who is housed at the Probation Department in our Resource Center. Not only has the Employment Specialist been instrumental in helping offenders secure employment, she provides valuable job-skills training for our offenders who are referred for employment services. In addition, our Employment Specialist reaches out to employers who might not otherwise hire convicted felons, and has added some of those employers to the list of those that will hire felons, widening the pool of prospective employers. In FY 2013-14 Sutter County had 42 offenders become employed. Our Employment Specialist served a total of 125 offenders during that time. Many of those offenders who were employed were high risk (43 percent.)

Programs and Services

Public safety, court ordered compliance, and program services are prevalent themes in Tehama County. As such, the county has adapted a Restorative Justice approach to treatment. Restorative Justice has three components: restoring the victim, the community, and the offender. The District Attorney maintains a Victim Witness program for victim restoration, and the day reporting center focuses on community and offender restoration through work programs that provide skills to the offenders and work programs that improve the community.

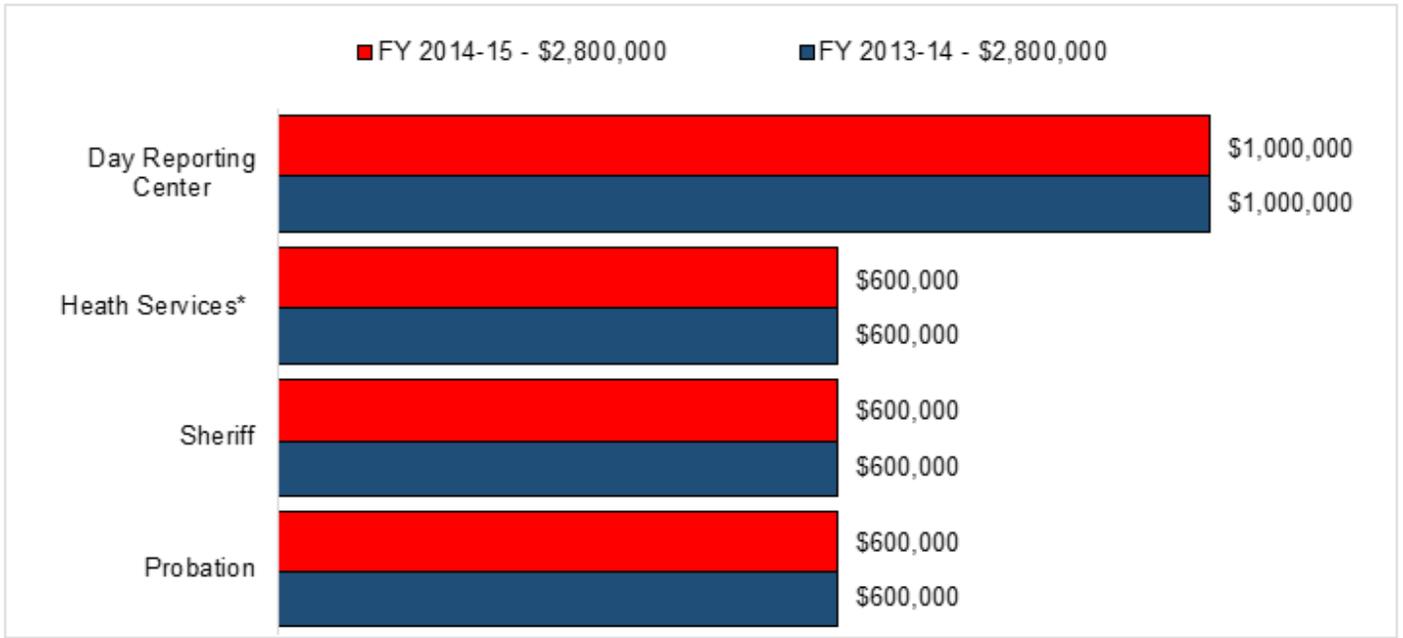

Offenders released on alternative custody programs must report to the day reporting center and be prepared to work. The work teaches offenders basic skills that will help restore their self-esteem, and the work they perform helps restore the community. All partners, including the Sheriff's Office, Probation, Health Services, community members, and state Parole Officers, have been trained in Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (approximately 60 people) as the cognitive-based behavioral change system.

In addition, community partners offer Alternatives to Violence classes, NA and AA, a Job Training Center, a contract for two, six-bed transitional housing facilities, faith-based group counseling, E-scholar and Parenting classes. The Sheriff's department also offers an Auto Shop program, and Probation contracts for a cabinet making program and welding shop, and a technical skills program.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

The community is supporting the efforts and programs within Tehama County as work is the core function to keep alternative custody, and noncompliant Post-Release Community Supervision/probationers busy during the day. Multiple visible work programs have been in local papers and highlighted in community presentations. The community is supportive. These work programs are run out of the Day Reporting Center, however, assessments and specific treatment programs, based on need, are also mandatory for the participants.

Progress	Recidivism rates are low, a pre-trial assessment tool has been implemented, and a robust home electronic monitoring program is in place

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

We have been fortunate to have maintained a relatively low average number of Post-Release Community Supervision cases. One probation officer and an assistant probation officer provide intensive supervision to this population and work hand-in-hand with the County Drug and Alcohol, Behavioral Health, Social Services and a non-profit to provide wrap-around services from the day the offender reports from prison. The non-profit is under contract to provide transitional housing and employment-seeking assistance. This has resulted in the very low recidivism rate of 16.6 percent.

Are you seeing positive results from a local best practice or promising program?

The following excerpt was written by a senior probation officer:

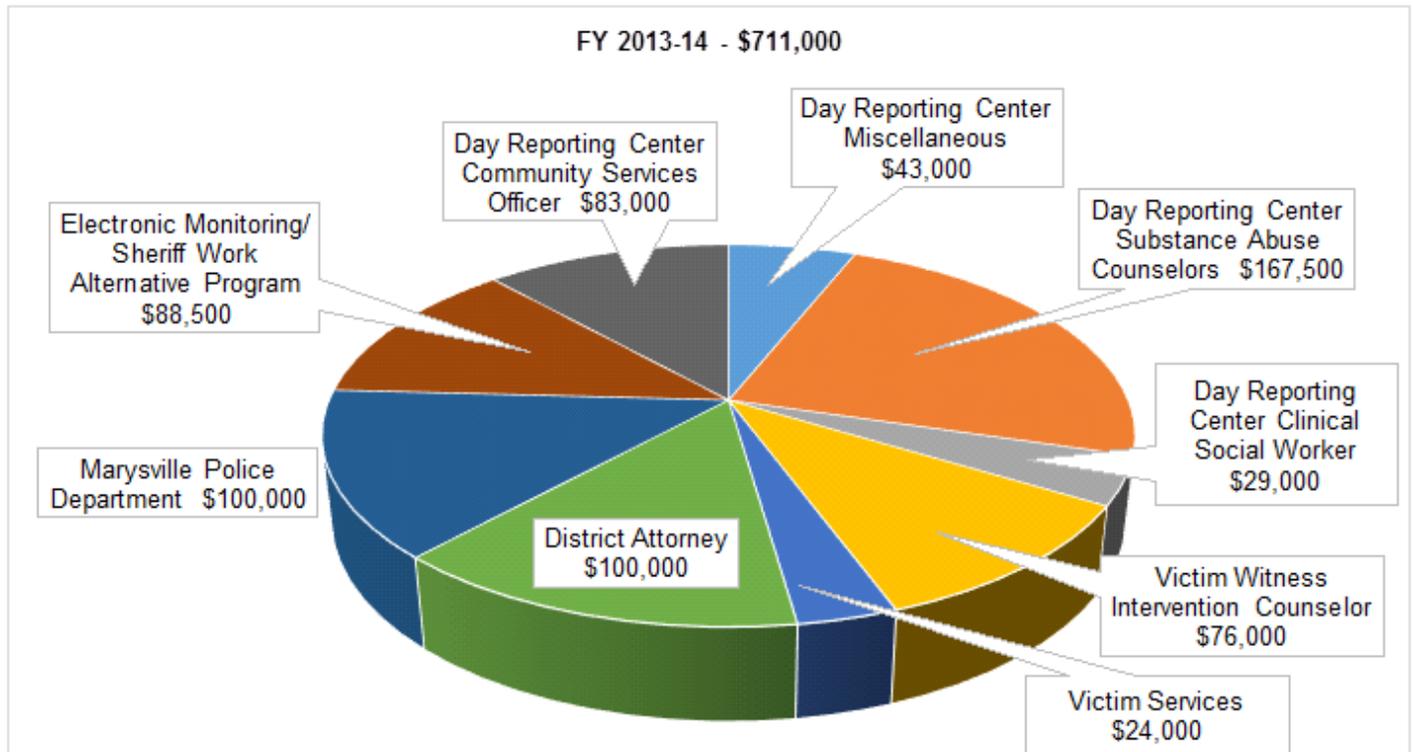

I have witnessed a very positive impact from utilizing best practice programs. In the past we were at the mercy of utilizing quite a few private vendors. Since we have assumed the responsibility of providing many of our own best practice programs we have drastically improved accessibility, consistency, quality, participation, and ultimately, our client's overall satisfaction and success rates. My introduction to our clients when conducting an initial interview speaks heavily on the topic of past practices versus current practices. I enjoy pointing out the great strides we have made in attempting to meet our client's needs and to support their success. The vast majority of our clients walk out of that meeting feeling hope for their future and they often embrace the programs we offer with enthusiasm. I have received excellent feedback after their attendance and it has become common for our clients to eagerly request additional, voluntary program enrollments. I remain excited about their future as we continue to expand the services we currently provide.

In addition, 45 offenders participated in the day reporting center, and 22 offenders participated in the Residential Treatment program. Approximately 90 offenders have been referred to and participated in the Parks and Grounds Community Service Program. Although completion rates for these Alternatives to Incarceration Programs are still being established, staff is continuing its efforts to track the data related to the objectives.

Goal	Collaborate with local agencies to provide local resources to Post-Release Community Supervised offenders (PRCS) as efficiently as possible

Progress	Collaboration is an ongoing effort and continues between all stakeholders. This goal encompasses a broad range of services and tracking potential. It includes both the Probation and Sheriff's departments working together and collaborating with the Human Resources Agency for medical coverage needs, the Job Training Office for vocational and job search needs, the Behavioral Health Department for mental health service needs, as well as collaboration with local community-based organizations such as the Kings Community Action Organization and Champions Recovery Inc. to address the needs of the targeted non, non, non offender population in Kings County. Collaboration between stakeholders remains a priority, and the County is continuing to focus on this effort by working to determine the wide range of needs for the targeted populations and working on systems and/or programs between all stakeholders to coordinate services that correspond to these needs. Once these systems/programs are in place, the County will be able to better track the outcomes of their collaboration efforts, primarily by means of referrals. Staff will continue its efforts to capture and track recidivism data now that there is a BSCC-approved definition of the measure.

Three regionally located "New Life" clinics were established to provide medication support to realigned offenders, resulting in a 300% increase. Additionally the number of reentry beds expanded from 30 to 79 beds, a 163% increase. One day reporting center remains open in the western region of Riverside, which was established in October 2012. A second location was planned to open in FY 2013-14; however the original day reporting center location was too small and would limit the program's ability to grow. The third location is in the Temecula region, was expected to open in February 2015, therefore this objective will carry over to FY 2014-15.

Goal	To efficiently use jail capacity
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Enhance pre-trial processes to more effectively use current jail capacity</li> <li>Improve and streamline felony settlement</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Change in percentage of jail capacity use for pre-trial detention, long term sentences, and revocations</li> </ul>
Progress	One effort that supports managing the jail capacity in San Diego County includes the establishment of the Residential Reentry Center (RRC), which is co-administered by the Sheriff and Probation Departments. Through our vendor, Correctional Alternatives Inc., staff at the RRC provide work readiness training and alternate custody options to designated individuals. About 155 individuals, on average, are housed at the RRC at any given time. In January 2012 the Sheriff also created the County Parole and Alternate Custody (CPAC) unit to provide alternate custody options for eligible jail inmates. This unit was designed to identify eligible inmates who are appropriate to be released from custody and monitored with electronic monitoring and/or GPS supervision. As of December 1, 2014, 37% (1,955) of the offenders in custody were realigned and through the CPAC Unit 374 offenders were placed in some sort of Alternate Custody, which may include the following: County Parole, Fire Camp, Home Detention, the Residential Reentry Center and Work Furlough.
Goal	Incorporate re-entry principles into in-custody programming
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Provide in-custody programming</li> <li>Expand re-entry beds in jail(s)</li> <li>Create Mandatory Supervision Court to transition persons from jail to community supervision</li> </ul>
Outcome Measure	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Number of offenders served (expanded in custody programming)</li> <li>Opened expanded (400 beds) East Mesa Reentry Facility</li> <li>Operational Mandatory Supervision Court</li> </ul>
Progress	July 9, 2012, through November 30, 2014: 139 participants completed Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (MRT), 42 participants completed Substance Abuse Therapy, and 13 participants completed Anti-Theft classes in the Sheriff's jails. In June 2014, the County opened the East Mesa Reentry and Rehabilitation Facility (EMRF), which includes in-custody and re-entry planning programming such as cognitive-behavioral therapy and substance abuse treatment. Vocational and certificate programs at the EMRF include construction trades, printing press operation, janitorial services, and computer graphics. Planning for release begins months and even years ahead of time for a smooth transition and success in the community. At any given time an average of 400 male inmates are receiving reentry case management services at the EMRF. A major component of the early planning for release includes our "Blueprint for Success" which the justice partners developed for Mandatory Supervision offenders. The plan was implemented on February 7, 2013 and includes a presentence Correctional Offender Management Profiling for Alternative Sanctions (COMPAS) assessment and a case plan developed from the offender's identified risks and needs. Once sentenced, the offender participates in the Sheriff's Reentry Program (if eligible). While in custody, correctional counselors and onsite Probation officers assist the offender to complete the goals as identified in the case plan. Approximately thirty days prior to release, the offender attends a pre-release review hearing in Mandatory Supervision Court where progress toward the identified goals are assessed and the conditions and requirements of the offender's community supervision are discussed. After release, regular status hearings are calendared for continued assessment of the offender's progress. A step down Probation supervision approach using a three-phase model is utilized to assist in a successful reintegration into the community. If the offender becomes non-compliant, s/he may be dropped down to the previous phase. In fiscal year 2013-14, 77% (260 out of 340) of Mandatory Supervision split-sentenced offenders completed their term of supervision in the community without receiving a subsequent misdemeanor or felony conviction during the term of supervision.

Goal	Decrease the number of offenders who fail to appear at court hearings
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Develop and implement the Supervised Own Recognizance (SOR) Program</li> <li>• Develop and implement Shasta County's Most Wanted (SCMW)</li> </ul>

Progress	SOR was implemented in February 2013 in order to supervise offenders prior to sentencing to assure attendance at court. In fiscal year 2013-14 there were approximately 163 offenders granted SOR with an average monthly case size of 36. Approximately 60% of the offenders on the program were successful in reaching sentencing without failing the program. SCMW was implemented in September 2013. To date, 236 offenders have been targeted in the program with 206 having been arrested and 30 outstanding. Of those offenders arrested, 195 have been sentenced. When the program started in September 2013, there were 516 offenders pending sentencing. One year later, that number has decreased to 397.

Goal	Increase offender engagement in cognitive-behavioral programs and Alcohol and Drug (AOD) Programs
Objective	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Contract with local community-based organization (CBO) to provide cognitive-behavioral programs in the jail</li> <li>• Contract with local CBO to provide AOD education programs in the jail</li> </ul>

Progress	An existing contract with a community-based organization was amended to provide Moral Reconciliation Therapy™ (MRT) to offenders incarcerated at the county jail. One men's class and one women's class is held weekly, consisting of offenders who score moderate or high risk to reoffend on our local assessment tool. The program allows for seamless transition of offenders in and out of custody so that progress through the program is not impeded and engagement is increased. In addition, all offenders who score moderate risk to reoffend and have substance abuse or peer issues are referred to the MRT™ classes at the Community Corrections Center (CCC). During FY 2013-14 the Health and Human Services Agency (HHSA) worked with its three Alcohol and Drug Outpatient Treatment providers to plan a program where weekly educational groups are provided within the jail. Existing contracts with these providers were amended to include these additional services, which began in August 2014. To date 101 inmates have participated in the classes and 10 have fully completed the four-week program.

FY 2014-15 Community Corrections Partnership Survey

Introduction

The Budget Act of 2014 (SB 852, Chapter 25, Statutes of 2014) appropriates $7,900,000 to counties as follows:

Counties are eligible to receive funding if they submit a report to the Board of State and Community Corrections by December 15, 2014, that provides information about the actual implementation of the 2013-14 Community Corrections Partnership plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors pursuant to Section 1230.1 of the Penal Code. The report shall include, but not be limited to, progress in achieving outcome measures as identified in the plan or otherwise available. Additionally, the report shall include plans for the 2014-15 allocation of funds, including future outcome measures, programs and services, and funding priorities as identified in the plan accepted by the County Board of Supervisors.

Survey

To assist counties with reporting requirements this electronic survey was designed by the BSCC in consultation with the Department of Finance. Counties completing the survey in its entirety will have met the report requirement.

Responses to the survey will also be used by the BSCC to submit the annual report to the Governor's Office and the Legislature on the implementation of Community Corrections Partnership (CCP) plans as required by section (11) of subdivision (b) of section 6027 of the penal code.

Survey Distribution

This survey has been distributed electronically to each Chief Probation Officer in the Chief's capacity as CCP Chair. Each CCP Chair is encouraged to share the survey with CCP members prior to completion and submission. Responses should represent the collective views of the CCP and not a single agency or individual.

Funding

Funds will be distributed by January 31, 2015, to counties that comply with all survey requirements as follows:

(1) $100,000 to each county with a population of 0 to 200,000, inclusive, (2) $150,000 to each county with a population of 200,001 to 749,999, inclusive, and (3) $200,000 to each county with a population of 750,000 and above. Allocations will be determined based on the most recent county population data published by the Department of Finance.

Due Date and Submission

One survey must be submitted electronically to the BSCC by Monday, December 15, 2014. The CCP is encouraged to collaborate on responses, and the CCP Chair should submit the survey. Only one submission by county will be accepted.
